CLEVELAND BANKERS ARRESTED.

CLEVELAND (O.) Dec. 4.—As the result of the extended conference between the United States District Attorney, the Bank Examiners, who have been looking into the affairs of the failed Citizens' Bank of Oberlin and their counsel, which lasted until late last night and all of today, President C. T. Beckwith and Cashier Spear of that bank were placed under arrest today by United States Marshal Chandler of Cleveland, at their homes at Oberlin. These arrests are the first that have been made in the Chadwick case. The Citizens' National Bank is creditor to the extent of $240,000 of Mrs. L. Chadwick, and is capitalized at but $60,000. President Beckwith took his arrest quietly. Mrs. Beckwith collapsed, and became so ill that a physician was called in.

THE GREAT WAR.

TERRIFIC FIGHTING ON THE HILLTOPS.

Capture of 203 Meter Hill Accompanied by Terrible Loss of Life.

Four Consecutive Charges by Japs in One Hour on Red Hill—Russians Make Three Counter Attacks at Night and Drive Out the Brown Men—Latter Finally Carry the Strong Position and Hold it.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOKIO, Dec. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Unofficial details of the capture of 203 Meter Hill show the struggle began at 1 o'clock p.m. November 27, when the besiegers concentrated a fire of heavy guns on the parapets of Red Hill, 300 meters south of High Hill. Four consecutive charges were delivered between 3 and 4 o'clock. The fourth succeeded, but during the night the Russians made three counter-attacks, the third of which was specially furious, and drove out the Japanese.

On the morning of the 28th the Japanese, instead of advancing via Red Hill, made a direct move on High Hill. The attack began at daylight, and was continued with desperate resolution. The Japanese, advancing into the valley between Red and High Hills, received fire from both forts and were decimated, but, sweeping on, they stormed the slopes of High Hall and captured the southeast corner of the northern face. Meanwhile another force effected a lodgment near the parapet on the southwest face. These operations were very costly, both sides throwing numerous grenades down upon each other.

TERRIBLE LOSSES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

TOKIO, Dec. 4.—The diary of the fighting around 203 Meter Hill, which is published in the Japanese papers, describes the terrible losses involved in the storming of the Russian position from dawn of November 28 until 11 o'clock in the forenoon of that day. A Russian counter-attack began at dawn November 29, and was so furiously pushed that the Japanese were compelled to retire in the valley. The attack was renewed the morning of November 30, when all the Japanese reserves came up from the southwestern corner; but the assailants only advanced thirty meters by 5 o'clock, so stubborn was the resistance, and the Japanese suffered severe loss. Then, being reinforced, the Japanese maintained the struggle with terrible earnestness. Furious charges were made repeatedly, and the Russians were compelled gradually to retire.

The southwestern summit of the hill was not occupied until 7 o'clock in the evening, and the northwestern summit not until 8 o'clock. During the night six Russian counter-attacks were repulsed. One, which was launched at 4 o'clock in the morning, was characterized by several bayonet attacks, and was persisted in until noon December 1, when, the hopelessness of the attempts becoming evident, the Russians retired.

DEPRECIATING JAPS' VICTORY.

CAPTURED HILL NOT MUCH.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 5, 2 a.m.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Neither the Admiralty nor the War Office is able to confirm the report from Chefoo that the Japanese have been unable to hold 203-Meter Hill, but this news is quite in accordance with expectations. Experts here are convinced that the capture of 203-Meter Hill will be of no advantage to the Japanese unless they can gain possession of the neighboring forts.

BLACK SEA FLEET.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 4.—Admiral Wirenius, chief of the General Staff of the Russian Navy, when questioned tonight said he knew nothing of any intention to send the Black Sea fleet to the Far East. He believed the question had not been mooted.

KOUROPATKIN REPORTS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 4.—Gen. Kouropatkin telegraphs under date of December 3, reporting unimportant skirmishes.

RUSSIA USING SHANGHAI.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The Morning Post's correspondent at Shanghai telegraphs as follows: "Russia practically is converting Shanghai into a depot for her military and naval stores. A local German butcher has received a Russian order for several million pounds of meat. Large quantities of coal are held on Russian account. The infringement of Shanghai's neutrality is arousing great indignation."

FRIEND OF STOESSEL.

TALKS OF PORT ARTHUR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA (Wash.) Dec. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A. T. Short, a merchant of Sherbrooke, Canada, and a personal friend of Gen. Stoessel, commander at Port Arthur, arrived yesterday from Yokohama, leaving last night for the East. Short left Port Arthur in July, and has spent most of the time since in Korea. He declares that to his personal knowledge a British steamer ran a blockade two and a half months ago, delivering 6000 tons of ammunition and supplies at Port Arthur. He believes two of every five merchant ships attempting to run the blockade succeed. Though the blockade has lately been made more effective, Chinese junks of fifty to two hundred tons are constantly carrying in food supplies.

Short pays a high tribute to Stoessel and his assistant, Gen. Foeck. Stoessel is described as stern and unrelenting in the enforcement of orders. In Short's opinion Port Arthur would be impregnable but for the surrounding hills, which enable the Japanese to reach the summits and peg away with their long-range guns.

"DOWN WITH THE AUTOCRACY."

ST. PETERSBURG'S MEETING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Dec. 5.—[By Atlantic Cable.] A dispatch from St. Petersburg to a news agency says:

"A remarkable meeting of 700 persons, the cream of the Russian intelligent classes, was held here Saturday night. Korolenko, a prominent Russian novelist, presided, and among those in attendance were Maxim Gorky, in his customary peasant's attire; Somevsky, the historian; Mme. Gallina, the poetess; Mme. Shapla, the novelist, and other writers. Numerous resolutions were adopted, demanding constitutional reforms, freedom of speech, a Parliament, etc.

A poem was read denouncing the bureaucracy for carrying on an unjust war in Manchuria. Many ladies were in tears, when Gorky in a fit of enthusiasm, kissed one of the orators. The meeting closed at 3 o'clock in the morning amid shouts of "Down with the autocracy!"

GRIPPEN AT HARBIN.

PATRIOTIC LEAGUE ENTERTAINS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

HARBIN, Dec. 4.—[By Asiatic Cable.] Gen. Grippen arrived here and will remain two days. He will take command of the Second Manchurian army.

A large warehouse of the Red Cross Society here has been burned, entailing a great loss of supplies.

An entertainment given by the Patriotic League has realized a large sum for the benefit of soldiers at the front.

TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS.

Management of Northwestern Road Will Try Rest Cure on Some Trainmen.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The management of the Northwestern road is taking extraordinary precautions in order to prevent long hours of service in the operating department, and also to see that employés take needed rest. For years the company has had a rule that it shall not count against an employé if he demands rest when he needs it, and now they propose to do everything except to follow him to his bed to see that he gets necessary rest. The new regulations are due to the criticism that many railroad wrecks are caused by men working continuously so many hours as to impair their efficiency.

In order that a check may be maintained, proper officials at terminals are being provided with what is known as a "rest book," in which the records of every train crew and engine crew are to be kept in detail. In this way the officials know exactly the time each man in the operating service has been on duty, and the time which elapses before he goes on duty again.

MRS. CHADWICK NERVOUS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Mrs. Chadwick remained in her rooms in the Holland House all day. Dr. Moore, her physician, called in the morning and found Mrs. Chadwick in a highly nervous state. Her conditions was such that Dr. Moore called a consultant and they made a thorough examination. The medical men found no organic trouble, but said that the patient was almost prostrated from the exciting events of the past week. They will keep close watch on her during the next few days. Emil, the young son of Mrs. Chadwick, who has been staying near his mother for several days, was the subject of some inquiry today. It was rumored that the boy had left town with the jewels alleged to belong to his mother, and that she would follow him tonight or tomorrow. This was denied by Carpenter.

SAN PEDRO CITY BONDS.

Block Offered on the Boston Market is Being Rapidly Picked up by Eastern Investors.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON (Mass.) Dec. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A $22,500 block of San Pedro, Cal., city bonds offered on the Boston market by N. W. Harris & Co. is being rapidly picked up by investors, especially trust funds and estates, evidently with a view to higher prices for such securities a few months hence, since the bond market is rapidly appreciating.

The bonds are the 5 per cent. issue, due by installments from 1908 to 1924, and sell at 108⅝, with accrued interest, netting 4.10 per cent.

SAY HARRIMAN FOR SENATOR.

ARRIVALS IN WASHINGTON BRING STRANGE WESTERN REPORT.

They Have Heard That Odell is Willing to Present the New York Toga to the Southern Pacific Magnate Instead of to Ex-Gov. Black. Platt Still Expects Depew to Win.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Incoming Senators and Representatives coming from the West bring strange reports that E. H. Harriman is slated to succeed Chauncey M. Depew in the United States Senate. None of them will give his authority, but state that some one has given the report wide circulation throughout the Middle West and on the Pacific Coast. The report is that when it comes to a "show-down" in the New York Legislature, Gov. Odell will be found behind Harriman, and not ex-Gov. Black, as is now supposed.

Odell controls the Legislature, and if he says Harriman, the railroad man will win, but the report is not given much credence here, and Senator Platt pronounces it a political lie. Nevertheless, there is a whole lot of mystery about the New York Senatorship. Platt still insists Depew will have a walk-over.

DYNAMITE AT ZEIGLER.

SPRINGFIELD (Ill.) Dec. 4.—Last night at Zeigler was comparatively quiet, only about fifteen shots being fired. Deputy United States Marshal Sharps created a sensation in Zeigler at noon by bringing in thirty-eight sticks of dynamite he had found between the office building and the pumping station. The dynamite was tied in two bundles, with a fuse on each that had been lighted, but which it is supposed the damp cold night prevented exploding. The dynamite was placed on the ground just above the principal water main which supplies Zeigler with water.

PRIVATE DETECTIVE DEAD.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4.—Winfield W. Choate, a private detective and recently a United States soldier, was found dead in the office of his employer today. He had been asphyxiated by illuminating gas. The authorities have not been able to ascertain whether death was accidental or otherwise. Choate was 23 years old.

PANAMA ROAD TO BE OPENED.

The President Has Question of Contract With Pacific Mail Under Consideration.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The President has under consideration the question abrogating the contract between the Panama Railroad and the Pacific Mail Steamship Company. A report on the matter has been made by the Isthmian Canal Commission, though the commission does not make definite recommendations. Questions are involved which will require the personal decision of the President, after consultation with Secretary Taft.

The subject is of intense interest to the Pacific Coast, involving the question of reduced freight rates on transcontinental railroads by throwing open the Panama Railroad to all comers. The Pacific Mail is likewise deeply interested, as the abrogation would in all probability lead to the establishment of rival steamship lines on the west coast.

Control of the Pacific Mail Company by Harriman interests, and the mutual interests of transcontinental railroads terminating in California, have combined to make competition by way of Panama an impossibility. California cannot obtain low freight rates as long as the Pacific Mail enjoys exclusive arrangements with the Panama Railroad Company. It has now been pointed out to the President that the contract should be abrogated, since the government itself cannot be expected to continue the arrangement, which is considered a combination in restraint of trade.

WASHINGTON.

CONGRESS FORECAST.

A Brief Session in Both Houses.

Senate Will Adjourn Out of Respect to Memory of Quay and Hoar.

The President's Message Will Not be Read, Therefore, Until Tomorrow.

Objection May be Made in the House to Seating Thomas Hefling.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The first act of the Senate convening tomorrow will be one of respect to the memory of two distinguished Senators, Senator Quay and Senator Hoar. Adjournment for the day will follow at once, and will postpone receipt of the President's annual message until Tuesday. That document will be received early Tuesday, and very little, if any further business beyond its reading and the induction into office of Mr. Knox of Pennsylvania and Crane of Massachusetts will be undertaken that day. For the remainder of the week, exceedingly brief sessions are expected. Thursday, adjournment will be taken until the following Monday.

Senator Lodge will press the House bill for the Philippines government as soon as it is possible to get that measure before the Senate, and he has announced his intention not to brook opposition to its consideration. The bill has the vast advantage of being on the calendar as unfinished business, so that it cannot easily be displaced. It is not probable, however, that Mr. Lodge now will attempt more with reference to it than to give notice of his intention to press its adoption.

Before the close of the session last spring, Senator Hoar gave notice that, next Tuesday, he would call up the bill providing means for the protection of the President, but owing to the death of the Senator consideration of the bill will be deferred for some time. Senator Heyburn gave notice last session that he would call up the Pure Food Bill next Tuesday, but while it is generally understood that he will press the question at all proper times, it is believed he will not make serious effort to proceed with it during the first few days of the session. Another measure which probably will be taken up early in the session is the bill for admission of the four Southwest Territories as two States. Nothing more than preliminary work, however, can be done on any of these bills in the first week.

It is expected that the Republican steering committee will give attention to the order of business early in the session, with a view to general legislation before the appropriation bills begin to arrive from the House of Representatives. Attention will be given to filling committee vacancies caused by the deaths of Senators Hanna, Hoar and Quay, but the disposition seems to be opposed to doing more in that direction, at present, than to passing to Senator Platt of Connecticut the chairmanship of the Committee on Judiciary, which place will go to him by virtue of seniority.

Monday will be characterized as usual by the attendance of a large number of spectators and a liberal display of flowers on the desks of the Senators.

Little in the way of legislative business is expected the first week of the session of the House. The first day will be devoted to calling the roll and swearing in new members who have been elected to fill vacancies. The usual committee will be appointed to inform the President that Congress is in session and the resolution notifying the Senate that a quorum of the House is ready for business will be adopted. Tuesday the President's message will be read, but it is not expected that any other business will be transacted.

There are a number of minor matters of legislation that may be considered Wednesday and Thursday, as no special order has been made for consideration of any general measure. It is possible that the Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation Bill may be reported Wednesday or Thursday.

Friday is Pension Day, and there will be more than a thousand private pension bills ready for the House to consider.

Early adjournments each day are expected during the first week, in order to give time to shape the session business.

Objections may be interposed against administering the oath of office to Thomas Heflin, elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Representative Thompson from the Fifth Alabama District, on account of certain language Heflin is alleged to have used regarding the President of the United States. In case objection is made, there is no doubt there will be a spirited party debate, that would occupy much time.

STATISTICS OF IMMIGRATION.

MATERIAL DECREASE IN ENTRIES IN LAST FISCAL YEAR.

Asia Supplied Most of the Steerage Passengers—Italy and Russia Led the European Tide—Employers of Alien Contract Labor Responsible for Violations of Law.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Immigration to the United States decreased materially during the last fiscal year, and it is a notable fact that the moral, intellectual and physical qualifications of the immigrants admitted to this country during the past year are higher than ever before have been chronicled. These are two salient features of the annual report of Frank P. Sargent, Commissioner-General of Immigration, which was made public today.

During the past fiscal year, 812,870 aliens arrived in the United States, of whom 549,100 were males and 263,770 females, an increase in females, as compared with last years, of 19,570 and a decrease in males of 64,046. Of the total number, 3953 could read, but not write; 168,903 could neither read nor write, and it is presumed the remainder, 640,014, could both read and write; 95,573 brought with them $50 or more each, and 501,520 brought each less than $50. The total amount of money shown to officers by these 812,870 aliens was $20,894,383, or $4,776,870 more than was brought by the 857,046 arrivals of last year.

At the various seaports, 8304 aliens were excluded during the year; 4798 being paupers, 1660 diseased, 35 convicts and 1501 contract laborers.

"It is interesting" says Mr. Sargent, "as bearing on the attempts on the part of the contractors in this country to evade the alien labor law, to note that despite the diminution of emigration there was an increase of 415 in the number rejected as alien contract laborers. This is a much larger number than has ever before been refused admission to the United States in any one fiscal year."

Of the aggregate steerage emigration, 767,833 came from Europe; 36,186 from Asia, and 17,751 from all other countries. The greatest number of immigrants, 193,226, came from Italy, a decrease of 37,376 from last year; 1.15,141 from Russia, 46,380 from Germany, an increase of 6294; 38,626 from England, an increase of 12,407; 36,142 from Ireland, an increase of 832; 27,763 from Sweden, a decrease of 18,265; 22,708 from Norway, a decrease of 653; 11,343 from Greece, a decrease of 2747, and 11,092 from Scotland, an increase of 4949. Of the oriental countries, Japan furnished the greatest number of immigrants, 14,382, a decrease of 5780, while China supplied 4309, an increase of 2100.

It is noted in the report that more than half of the total immigration of 421,844 was supplied by the Italian, Polish, Slavik and Magyar races.

Commissioner Sargent says that the effective operating cause of violations and attempted violations of the alien contract labor law is the employer of such labor in this country. To put an end to such offenses, it is necessary for the law to reach such employers, and by sufficient punishment, more potent than the mere expulsion or deportation of the aliens induced by them to emigrate hither, to deter them from such practices.

Concerning the persistence with which some of the steamship companies bring diseased aliens into the country, the commissioner says this feature of emigration has given the bureau more concern than any other, both because of its importance as affecting the health, or even the life, possibly, of citizens of this country, and because of the apparent determination to bring aliens suffering with communicable diseases, upon the chance of the latter being able to effect an entrance. That the law is being defied by some of the companies is plain, from the fact that 1660 alien passengers thus afflicted were refused admission during the year.

Comparatively little difficulty has been experienced during the year in the enforcement of the Chinese Exclusion Act, although about the usual number of cases has been handled.

Commissioner Sargent says that "paramount in importance to all other legislation in regard to alien immigration, the bureau considers some adequate measure for the distribution of aliens who are admitted to this country."

SANTO DOMINGO.

TO BE MADE SAFE AND SANE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The United States will not purchase, annex or even accept as a gift the republic of Santo Domingo. Reorganize its government, pay off its indebtedness and replace the intolerable conditions existing with a safe and sane government, precisely as was done with Cuba, is not only possible but probable. It is also possible that, in return for thus acting as Dominican receiver, the United States may acquire the use of a coaling station on Samana Bay.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Senator Fairbanks was at the White House tonight for some time, in conference with the President.

YALE FRESHMEN APOLOGIZE.

—NEW HAVEN (Ct.) Dec. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Yale freshman class has issued a formal apology to the New Haven Park Commissioners for smearing all over East Rock Park a week ago evidences of their victory over the Harvard freshmen in football. The apology states that the class wishes to voice a sincere apology and to offer whatever reparation is in their power; that it expresses its disapproval of the act and states that in future the conduct of the class will be of such a nature as to encourage friendly relations between the town and the university. One of the apologizers is Richard Fairbanks, son of the Vice-President-elect. There are fifteen signers.

POLITICAL.

HONEST CANDIDATES.

Popular Vote for Roosevelt and for Folk in Missouri Shows the Stand Taken by Thinking Americans When Thoroughly Aroused.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] By far the most interesting lesson of the late election is that the American people discount deception, and can always be trusted to do the right thing in the right place and at the right time. Three Democratic Governors were elected in States which voted overwhelmingly for President Roosevelt because these Democrats stand morally in State affairs for what the President stands for in the national government, honesty in public service and a "square deal" and equality before the law for all men.

Probably the most significant of all was the election of Folk for Governor of Missouri, whose electoral vote was cast for Theodore Roosevelt. Folk, like Roosevelt, was an aggressive candidate, who stood for something, while Parker was a shifty candidate on an apologetic platform. From the beginning, Folk and Roosevelt stood together before the people of Missouri on the solid plank of civic righteousness. The corrupt Democratic machine fought Folk in Missouri, even as many corrupt Republican politicians secretly fought President Roosevelt everywhere, but the people recognized two honest champions of the highest governmental standards, and the corrupt politicians were swept aside by a mighty wave of public approval.

PEOPLE LOVE A "FIGHTER."

In Massachusetts, the victory of W. L. Douglass carries the same lesson as that of Folk in Missouri. The Democrats, fearful of attacking the issue of tariff reform, made a cowardly straddle on the national platform. Douglass made the fight largely on the issue of free raw materials. He was bold and aggressive, and honestly believed what he preached on the stump. Like Folk, he stood for cleanliness in State affairs, and the people of the Bay State, appreciative and responsive to an honest, able man, elected him Governor by 35,000 plurality, with 100,000 plurality for Theodore Roosevelt.

In Minnesota, some foolhardy politicians sprang the story that Johnson, the Democratic candidate for Governor, was the son of a Swedish washerwoman, and that his father was a drunkard and an outcast. The story was true, but it brought out in all its glory the accompanying story of the boy's struggle against adverse conditions and the purity of his life, and gave the people clearly to understand that the Swedish washerwoman's son stood for civic uprightness in the State, as Roosevelt stood in the nation. Johnson was elected in a State which gave President Roosevelt 150 000 plurality.

These lessons are the great aftermath of the campaign, and the Democratic leaders are talking of adopting a policy of aggressive honesty in future. The signs of the times could not be better.

OIL FUEL FOR NAVY.

Secretary Morton Says the Question is One of Peculiar Interest. Not Settled Adversely to Liquid Petroleum.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In his annual report, made public today, Secretary of the Navy Morton makes an extended comment on liquid fuel for naval purposes. He says:

"As the United States produces 48 per cent. of the world's output of petroleum, and as Texas and California and other oil fields are near to maritime ports and possible scenes of naval operations, the question of utilizing liquid fuel on ships of war, which for some years has been engaging the attention of naval experts abroad, is one of peculiar interest to this country.

"Oil is used instead of coal in manufactories and power plants on the Pacific Coast. Locomotives on California railways are using oil as fuel in lieu of coal with satisfactory results, particularly from the standpoint of economy, a saving of over 50 per cent. in fuel cost alone in some cases having been attained. Ocean steamers are plying regularly between Honolulu and San Francisco with liquid-fuel installations which appear to be safe, ocean freighters have made voyages from New York to San Francisco, using coal and returning from San Francisco to New York using oil as fuel. With oil better time was made, the cost was less; the trip was made with six men only, instead of fifteen in the fire-rooms; several hundred tons more space was available for the cargo, and there was no increase in the insurance rates. The total saving to the owner from the use of oil was not less than $500 per day.

"All this does not prove that petroleum can be advantageously substituted for coal as fuel supply for a naval vessel, but it is sufficient to warrant giving it a trial in some of them.

"Among the advantages offered by liquid fuel are reduction of the complement of men in the fire-room, extension of the steaming radius of vessels, attainment of maximum speed at short notice, facility with which boilers may be forced to extreme duty in cases of emergency, rapidity in meeting the varying load on the boilers, absence of smoke under light normal working conditions, economy of space reserved for carrying fuel, and finally the fact that oil tanks may be readily and quickly replenished. It appears to have been demonstrated by commercial experience that steam can be raised by oil fuel in one-third of the time required by a coal furnace, and that the time requisite to fill the oil tanks may be reduced to a fraction of that needed for filling the bunkers with coal. On the other hand, the difficulties of using a liquid-fuel plant upon vessels of war, particularly battleships and cruisers, are many and obvious.

"In pursuance of an act of Congress making appropriation for the purpose, a board of officers has been engaged for more than two years in investigating the feasibility of the use of liquid fuel on naval vesels, and during the twelve months of this period the torpedo-boat Rodgers, with its personnel, was placed at the disposal of the board. Valuable data obtained by researches thus conducted will be found further set forth in the report made to the board by the chief of the Board of Steam Engineering, and just published.

"In this report the board expresses the opinion that at least one vessel cruising on the Pacific Coast should be so arranged as to use oil as an auxiliary fuel, and this a coast-defense vessel, but that reliance should not be placed exclusively upon oil product; that in case an oil depot were established at Honolulu an oil-fuel installation should be made in one of the coast defense monitors whereby the advantages and disadvantages of oil fuel for naval purposes could be absolutely ascertained. The board further states that the information and data already secured warrants the immediate installation of oil-fuel appliances on several torpedo boats and torpedo-boat destroyers to test the adaptability of water-tube boilers of the bent tube type for using this fuel.

"My own view with respect to the matter is that the use of oil as a fuel on board naval vessels is a question that cannot by any means be regarded as settled adversely."

HAVE CUT THE ESTIMATES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Secretary of the Navy Morton, in his annual report made public today, says:

"The naval estimates for the fiscal year are large, the largest ever submitted, notwithstanding the fact that they have been cut down from those sent in by the bureau more than $17,000,000. We have asked for less than the money actually required to continue the naval programme, as laid down by the general board of which Admiral Dewey is the head, notwithstanding all who have studied the question carefully agree that this programme should be carried out.

"The past year was an important one in the history of our naval construction. Never before were so many warships launched by this or any other nation in one year. Vessel for vessel and type for type, I believe our new ships will compare favorably with those of any navy afloat, and every American should be proud of the progress and character of the work now being accomplished, not only in construction, but in all branches of the service.

"New ships necessarily require more officers, more marines and more enlisted men, and the appropriations are quite likely to increase steadily for some years to come. The more ships we have, the greater our fixed charges will be and the greater our facilities necessarily must be in the way of yards and docks, and the ability to make repairs and take proper care of the fleet. It is just as essential to keep our ships in thorough repair as it is to build them in the first place, and to permit them to run down for any length of time and go without repairs would be the height of folly. It costs a great deal of money to keep the fleet moving in maneuvers and target practice, but this is the only way officers and men can gain experience at sea, and it is our well-defined policy to maintain a high standard of efficiency throughout the service.

OUR BEST INSURANCE.

"Last year, the navy cost a little over $1 per capita. It cost little compared to what war would cost, and it is the best insurance we have against war. We want such a navy in style, size and 'sand' that no other navy will ever desire an engagement with us. It is our greatest exhibit in favor of peace. We are bound to occupy a prominent position among the great nations of the earth, and while doubtless we shall always be in the lead in every international move to promote peace, it is much better for us to be at all times so well prepared for war that war will never come.

"I am sure that the people of the United States will approve of a navy that is well prepared at all times to take care of their defenses, and to protect their position in the world. This is all we are trying to accomplish."

MORE MEN NEEDED.

Secretary Morton speaks of the need for more officers and men in the navy, saying: "It is useless to build ships unless provision is made to man, care for and use them."

BATTLESHIPS ARE FIRST.

On the question of battleships versus torpedo boats, Secretary Morton says: "The lessons of the war in the East thus far are the same as those of the Spanish War, with respect to the relative value and uses of battleships, torpedo boats and destroyers. Weight of metal, heavy guns and hard hitting, whether at long or short range, still do the most effective work. The day of the battleship is not over, and the sphere of the lighter vessels, while important, is auxiliary only.

"These conclusions reached by the general board and the board of construction as the result of careful study of naval progress and present conditions in the light of the events of the past few months in eastern seas, confirm in a most striking manner your own views on the subject, expressed more than two and a half years ago."

Secretary Morton then quotes from a letter addressed by the President in February, 1902, to the Secretary of the Navy, in which the Chief Executive assigned the place of first importance to the heavier vessels of modern fleets; concluded that in the future, as in the past, battleships must hold the battle line, and emphasized the point of taking the ground that the place of the admiral in war, and probably also in peace, is on the best fighting ship of his squadron.

After noting the President's judgment, as set forth at that time regarding the place of the battleship in the navy, is that of the naval experts today, the Secretary continues: "With respect to the place of the torpedo-boat, it is remarkable that no terms can be found in which to state present conclusions with more clearness and precision than those employed in a report by you more than six years ago (February, 1898,) while Assistant Secretary of the Navy."

Secretary Morton then goes on to quote from the President's letter of that date, in the course of which the President said: "Nothing could be more foolish than the talk of substituting torpedo boats for battleships and cruisers. Except when working at night, or under conditions which favor a surprise, the torpedo boat is absolutely helpless against any sea-going ship armed with rapid-fire guns, whether the ship be large or small, and under no circumstances is it fit to do rough work at sea, or to perform any of the duties taken as a matter of course by regular sea-going craft."

The Secretary, continuing, says: "The General Board and the Board of Construction, after weighing the result of recent developments, have reached conclusions in full accord with those expressed by you in the paper above quoted, and a schedule of naval construction in harmony with these views will be submitted later."

TO PREVENT WAR.

The chief object of our navy, continues Secretary Morton, is to prevent war, and on this subject he quotes the chief of the Bureau of Navigation as follows: "Although it is still too early to draw final conclusions from the affair in the Far East, one cardinal military principle has received new and striking confirmation; that is, preparedness, the swiftness of action which can be successful only with thorough preparedness. Readiness for immediate action on the outbreak of war require: that the whole field shall have first been maturely considered, and that all probable operations and contingencies shal have been suitably provided for down to the smallest detail whose need can be foreseen."

He continues: "It is only fair to say the work now being done by the General Board, with Admiral Dewey at its head, is directly in the line of preparation for war, and is of the greatest value."

TWO VICE-ADMIRALS.

Secretary Morton says that our interests in the Far East and elsewhere have become so important that the navy should have one or more officers of high rank available for service wherever their presence may be appropriate, and he concurs in the recommendation of the chief of the Bureau of Navigation, that provision be made for two vice-admirals of the navy.

Secretary Morton also concurs with the chief of the Bureau of Navigation in the opinion that officers of the navy attain command rank too late in life.

He recommends that officers of the navy be placed on the same footing as officers of the army with respect to recognition for conspicuously meritorious conduct, and recommends two classes of medals, one to be given for acts of gallantry performed in time of peace and the other for acts of special heroism in time of war.

He urges that vessels and squadrons should be kept moving and officers and men be continuously under training, noting an increase in efficiency, especially in the case of the heavier guns.

"Target practice," he says, "is expensive, but no money is spent with better results."

Secretary Morton reports satisfactory progress of work on vessels building at navy yards, but says: "It is the opinion of the chief constructor that ships built by the government at the navy yards will cost more money than if built at private yards by contract."

He concurs, however, with the chief constructor in the view that the repairing and overhauling of naval vessels must remain the important work of the navy, and that there should be no change in the policy of building public ships as a general rule by contract at private establishments.

NAVAL GUN FACTORIES.

Of naval gun factories he says:

"The maintenance of a public naval gun factory in a state of such efficiency as to be capable of turning out guns of all calibers required for the armament of naval vessels is undoubtedly desirable. The existence of such an establishment tends to keep prices down, and to prevent the formation of monopolies for the supply of ship armament. I do not, however, agree with certain of the ordnance experts in the opinion that the navy should, under ordinary circumstances, undertake to manufacture all, or even the greater part of the guns and ammunition required for the service. On the contrary, I think it is better to adhere in the matter of armament to the general policy adopted with respect to ships and armor.

"At more than one navy yard it is possible to build warships, and the government is actually building them at some of the yards, but this is the exception. Most of the new ships are under construction at private establishments and all armor is furnished by private concerns. It would seem wise to follow the general policy with respect to armament.

"The government should not unnecessarily enter the industrial field. The development in time of peace of large private establishments, with extensive plants and a force of skilled artisans capable of building ships of the first class, making armour of best quality in all weights, and constructing guns of every kind and supplying fixed ammunition therefor is desirable, inasmuch as the existence of such establishments may be of important service in time of war."

He urges that, in view of its use in the national defense, wireless telegraphy should remain under public control.

Of Guam, he says: "It is believed that Congress should provide a form of government for the island without delay, and give to its people that sense of security in property and business affairs which can come only from permanent laws and a form of government in harmony with that of the country to which the island belongs."

Maj. E. E. Elliott left Springfield, Ill., last night for Zeigler, to assume command of the troops. Maj. Elliott was called to Springfield Saturday by Adjt.-Gen. Scott and ordered to go at once to Zeigler.

BAPTIZING OF A CROWN PRINCE.

ITALY'S FUTURE MONARCH IN AN INTERESTING CEREMONY.

Ballroom of the Quirinal Transformed Into a Chapel and Beautifully Decorated—Royal Infant Had Nothing to Say Until He Felt the Holy Water on His Forehead.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ROME, Dec. 4.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The infant Crown Prince of Italy was baptized at the Quirinal today. The weather was showery, but this did not prevent a great crowd from gathering at the palace to witness the passage of the carriages, with their distinguished occupants. The ballroom of the Quirinal, which had been transformed into a chapel, was beautifully decorated. The altar stood at the end of the room with six immense golden candlesticks and a crucifix in the center. Above the altar was a picture which had been taken from the Quirinal chapel, representing the nativity of the Madonna and Child. Above this was a balcony for the court quintette.

On either side of the steps leading to the altar were three pyramids of exquisite white flowers, joined together by garlands of the same blossoms. The space between the windows was banked with flowers, making a perfect bower. Before the altar were rows of gilded chairs. On the left of the altar was a box for the Princesses Yolande and Mufalda, and for other children of the court. Under this, in red brocade, with palms, was another box for diplomats, whose countries had sent royal representatives, such as Great Britain, Germany, Portugal and Servia. The diplomats from other countries were not invited. Opposite this box and on the other side of the altar was a box for wearers of the collar of the Annunziata, who rank as cousins of the King.

When all the guests had assembled, sixteen canons and the court chaplain, Mgr. Beccaria, entered processionally, taking their places at the altar. Immediately after the appearance of the clergy, the doors of the private apartments of the palace were opened to allow the royal cortege, headed by the master of ceremonies, and the prefect of the palace, to pass. Countess Bruschi-Falgari, lady in waiting, carried the Crown Prince in an exquisite lace embroidery robe and lying on a lace pillow.

With the King and Queen were the Prince of Montenegro, dressed as a Cospador, with a rich Montenegrin costume, and his three daughters. Princess Helen of Servia, the Dowager Duchess of Genoa, great grandmother of the Crown Prince, Prince Albert of Prussia, Prince Arthur of Connaught, Prince Victor Napoleon, the Duke of Genoa, the Count of Turin and others.

The spectacle was magnificent in the extreme. All the ladies, including those of the royal party, were dressed in white, with creamy lace veils on their heads, their persons glittering with jewels, the uniforms of the diplomatic and military representatives giving an added tone of color. The effect was heightened by the exquisite music of a quintette.

The baptismal ceremony was most picturesque. Countess Bruschi-Falgari came slowly forward with the infant which was taken by the Queen, who advanced before the altar. At the same time, the King stepped forward to the box occupied by the royal children and lifted out the Princesses Yolande and Mufalda, whom he kept beside him during the entire ceremony, which they watched with wide-eyed interest. The godmother and Prince Nicholas of Montenegro, the godfather, stood on either side of the Queen and the infant, with hands on the Crown Prince's shoulder. The ceremony lasted fifteen minutes, and the Crown Prince acted splendidly; his only outcry being when he felt the holy water upon his forehead.

After the ceremony, King Victor Emmanuel kissed his little son, and the Queen made the round of the room to show the Crown Prince to everybody. Then, with leep bows to the altar and the assembly, the royal party retired.

EARNS HIS SALARY.

Iowa Professor of Agriculture Puts Thirty Million Dollars in the Farmers' Pockets.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WEBSTER CITY (Iowa) Dec. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Prof. R. G. Holden this year made one hundred million more bushels of corn grow in the State than were raised the preceding season, and in 1905 he expects to double the increase. He is the agronomist of Iowa Agricultural College, and is most popular among the farmers. His salary of $5000 a year, yet in the last twelve months he has earned an additional $30,000,000 for the man with the hoe.

Prof. Holden found the farmers last winter discouraged over the corn outlook. When the weather was not too wet, it was too dry, and if by chance they obtained a middle condition, along came a storm and blew down the stalks. He decided that what Iowa needed was corn with ears growing close to the ground. He experimented until he found a kind that answered the demand. Then he traveled through the State addressing the farmers from the rear platform of his car and distributed the seed.

FLASHES FROM THE WIRES

The course of lectures of Prof. Barret Wendell, professor of English at Harvard, at the Sorbonne continues to draw crowds. The continued interest assures the success of the four months' course, and the adoption of a permanent American series of lectures as a feature of the Sorbonne course.

A Cardiff cablegram says the captain of the German collier, Capt. Menzell, has been forbidden by the government to ship another cargo of coal from here. The Foreign Office took this action on proof that a former cargo taken by the Capt. Menzell had been discharged to the ships of the Russian Pacific squadron off Dakar. The action of the Foreign Office was taken under the foreign enlistment act. It is rumored that the government is endeavoring to arrange with Germany joint action to prevent the coaling of the Russian fleet by German ships.

What People Who Know Think of Good Springs—Prospectors Rushing Into New Nevada Territory.

"From my acquaintance with the district (Good Springs) and mining of this State and Nevada, I believe that the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad will open up some very large mining countries in the vicinity of Good Springs and particularly at Good Springs; as my information is that there are some very large properties there that can be worked when they have railroad facilities. Some of our prominent mining men are operating in that vicinity and at Good Springs, and they report that the camp is showing up very favorably and that there will be a large tonnage when the railroad is completed, and I believe there will be great activity in that vicinity within the next few months."—Letter from Frank Knox, President National Bank of the Republic, Salt Lake City, Utah.

CRAZY CANADIAN.

Creates Panic on Santa Fe Passenger Train—Slashes Fellow Traveler With a Razor.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LAS VEGAS (N. M.) Dec. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Pierre LeBlanc, a French Canadian caused a panic on Santa Fé passenger No. 1, while it was in the Raton tunnel yesterday. He inflicted wounds that probably will cause the death of a young man from Cleveland, O., said to be named Balliet. LeBlanc became crazed without warning. Just as the train passed into the tunnel he attacked Balliet with a razor. He cut off Balliet's ears, slashed the side of his face and cut deep gashes in his head and neck. Balliet sprang out of the seat, and with blood streaming down his face, ran screaming to the next car. A second man attacked was unable to defend himself from the maniac, and received three deep wounds. A third man whom the maniac attacked kicked the latter in the stomach, doubling him up, then jumping on him, called for help. The conductor and three men responded, overpowered the man with difficulty and bound him hand and foot. The wounded man and the maniac were left at Raton. LeBlanc's sudden frenzy is thought to have been caused by the high altitude.

Congdon Men Get Away Wit Registration List.

Steel Company's Suit—Lum ber Mills to Close.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA (Wash.) Dec. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A Dawson dispatch says the spirit of the Klondike people borders on rebellion, since the Congdon men have made away with the voters' registration list. Indignation over enumerators being put in out-of-the-way places has given way to open revolt, and an appeal has been made to Justice Dugas to have lists furnished where they are missing.

Congdon and Dr. Thompson are opposing candidates for Parliament, Congdon having recently resigned the Governorship of Yukon Territory. Judge Dugas was in bed when called on, but said from reports that he thought it outrageous for the government supporters to steal the lists. He has promised to give a decision tomorrow.

The dispatch says that should he decide that he cannot make the enumerators furnish the missing lists, there will be a riot Monday night. Citizens are ready to start for Bonanza, Dominion and other creeks to let the miners know that physical force must be necessary in order to get justice. Open threats are made. One of the most prominent Canadians in Dawson said: "Unless we can get justice through the officers of the law, we must use force or else swear allegiance to another flag."

Police are being called in from outlying detachments. It is estimated that if the lists are not forthcoming there will be 4000 miners in the city.

TACOMA (Wash.) Dec. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Because lumber and shingle markets are demoralized, scores of mills closed down temporarily and others will follow during the coming week. Readjustment of the market condition is expected to result within sixty days. The foreign contingent this year is the largest that ever started in the race and it was the opinion of the experts who witnessed the start that native champions will have a hard time holding their own.

AGREEMENT IS REACHED.

Panama Enters Into a Pact With Uncle Sam.

Customs Receipts of All Ports Go to Isthmians.

Tariff Reduced Five Per Cent.—Other Concessions.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PANAMA, Dec. 4.—[By Panama Cable.] The differences between the United States and Panama, which made necessary the visit of Secretary of War Taft to the isthmus, were settled today by the issuance of an executive order signed by Secretary Taft for President Roosevelt and assented to in a letter by President Amador of Panama.

The order provides that no trade for the canal zone or the republic of Panama can enter the ports established by the United States at either end of the canal, supplies for the construction of the canal and articles in transit being excepted. This turns the customs receipts of these ports over to the government of Panama.

Panama agrees to reduce her tariff from 15 per cent. ad valorem to 10 per cent. This reduction applies to all goods except wines, liquors, alcohol and opium. Panama also agrees to reduce her consular fees and port charges to 60 per cent. of the rates at present charged. Absolute free trade is to apply between the canal zone and the republic of Panama. Vessels entering the canal ports are granted free entry to the ports of Colon and Panama, and vessels entering the latter ports are extended the same privileges in the canal ports.

Complete jurisdiction is granted to the United States in the harbors of Colon and Panama as to sanitation and quarantine regulations.

Panama reduces her rate of postage to 2 cents, and is to furnish all stamps in the republic and in the canal zone. The zone authorities are to purchase stamps from Panama at 40 per cent. of their face value.

The order of Secretary Taft is to be ineffective unless Panama shall put into effect the gold standard, according to the currency agreement of June 20, 1904. It also makes a stipulation regarding citizenship rights to Panamanians in the canal zone, and provision is also made in the order for maintenance by the United States of important highways, partly in and partly out of the canal zone, and also for the building of a hospital.

THE ORDER IN FULL.

The order is made effective December 12, 1904, and the full text of it is as follows:

PANAMA, Dec. 2, 1904.—By direction of the President, it is ordered that, subject to the action of the Fifty-eighth Congress, as contemplated by the act of Congress approved April 28, 1904:

Section 1. No importations of goods, wares and merchandise shall be entered at Ancon or Christobal, the terminus ports of the canal, except such goods, wares and merchandise as are decided in Article XIII of the treaty between the republic of Panama and the United States, the ratifications of which were exchanged on the 28th day of February, 1904, and except goods, wares and merchandise in transit across the isthmus zone for a destination without the limits of said isthmian zone, and except coal and crude mineral oil for fuel purposes to be sold at Ancon or Cristobal to sea-going vessels, of said coal and oil to be admitted to these ports free of duties for said purposes. It is provided, however, that this order shall be inoperative, first, unless the republic of Panama shall reduce the ad valorem duty on goods described in the act of the national convention of Panama passed July 6, 1904, and which took effect October 12, 1904, from 15 per cent. to 10 per cent., and shall not include articles described in other schedules of said tariff, except on all forms of wines, liquors, alcohol and opium on which the republic may fix higher rates; second, unless Article XXXVIII of the Constitution of the republic of Panama, as modified by Article CXLVI thereof, shall remain in full force and unchanged, so far as the importation and sale of all kinds of merchandise are concerned; third, unless the consular fees and charges of the republic of Panama in respect to the entry of all vessels and importations into said ports of Panama and Colon shall be reduced to 60 per cent. of the rates now in force, and, fourth, unless goods imported into the ports of Panama and Colon and consigned to or destined for any part of the canal zone, shall not be subjected in the republic of Panama to any other direct or indirect impost or tax whatever.

Sec. 2. In view of the proximity of the port of Ancon to the port of Panama and the port of Cristobal to the port of Colon, the proper customs or port officials of the canal zone shall, when not inconsistent with the interests of the United States, at the instance of the proper authorities of the republic of Panama permit any vessel entered at or cleared from the ports of Panama and Colon, together with its cargo and passengers under suitable regulations for the transit of the imported merchandise and passengers to or from the territory of the republic of Panama, to use and enjoy the dockage and other facilities of the ports of Ancon and Cristobal, respectively, upon payment of proper dockage duties to the owners of said docks; provided, however, that reciprocal privileges as to dockage and other facilities at Panama and Colon, together with suitable arrangements for transit of imported merchandise and passengers to and from the territory of the canal zone shall be granted by the authorities of the republic of Panama, when not inconsistent with the interests of any vessel, together with its cargo and passengers, entered at or cleared from the ports of Ancon and Cristobal, provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall affect the complete administrative, police and judicial jurisdiction of the two governments over their respective ports and harbors except as hereinafter provided in Section 6; provided, also that vessels entering or clearing at the port of Panama shall have the absolute right freely to anchor and discharge their cargoes by lighterage from and to Panama at the usual anchorage in the neighborhood of the islands of Perico, Flamenico, Naos and Culebra through and included in the harbor of Ancon, under the provisional delimitation as amended under Section 5, hereafter, and to use the said waters of said harbor for all lawful commercial purposes.

Sec. 3. All manifests and invoices and other documents in respect to vessels or cargoes cleared or consigned for or from the ports of Panama and Colon shall, as heretofore, be made by the officials of the republic of Panama. All manifests, invoices and other documents in respect to the vessels cleared or consigned for or from the ports of Ancon or Cristobal shall be made by officials of the United States.

Sec. 4. No import duties or cargoes or charges of any kind whatever shall be imposed by the authorities of the canal zone upon goods, wares and merchandise imported or upon persons passing from the territory of the republic of Panama into the canal zone; and Section 5 of the executive order of June 24, 1904, providing that duties on importations into the canal zone are to be levied in conformity with such duties as Congress has imposed upon foreign merchandise imported into ports of the United States is hereby revoked; but this order shall be inoperative unless the authorities of the republic of Panama shall grant by proper order reciprocal free importation of goods, wares and merchandise and free passage of persons from the territory of the canal zone into that of the republic of Panama.

Sec. 5. The provisions of this order also shall not be operative except upon the condition that the delimitation of the cities and harbors of Colon and Panama, signed on the 15th day of June, 1904, by the proper representatives of the government of Panama and of the canal zone shall be provisionally enforced, and while the same shall remain in force with the consent of both parties thereto the provisional delimitation shall include not only the terms set forth in the writing thereof, but also the following: That the harbor of Panama shall include the maritnme waters in front of said city to the south and east thereof, extending three maritime miles from mean low-water mark, except the maritime waters lying westerly of a line drawn from a stake or post set on Punta Mala, through the middle island of three islands known as Las Tres Hermanes and extending three marine miles from mean low-water mark on Punta Mala, which water shall be considered in the harbor of Ancon.

Sec. 6. This order also shall be inoperative unless the proper governmental authorities of the republic of Panama shall grant power to the authorities of the canal zone to exercise immediate and complete jurisdiction in matters of sanitation and quarantine in the maritime waters of the ports of Panama and Colon.

Sec. 7 refers to the establishment of postoffices and post services as noted above.

Sec. 8. This order shall not be operative unless the currency agreement made at Washington, June 20, 1904, by the representatives of the republic of Panama and the Secretary of War of the United States, acting with the approval of the President of the United States for the establishment of a gold standard of value in the republic of Panama and proper coinage shall be approved and put into execution by the President of the republic of Panama pursuant to the authority conferred upon him by the law of the republic of Panama, number 84, approved June 24, 1904, and unless the President of the republic of Panama, in order that the operation of the said currency agreement in securing and maintaining a gold standard of value in the republic of Panama may not be obstructed thereby, shall, by virtue of 65, enacted by the National Assembly of Panama on June 6, 1904, abolish the tax of 1 per cent. on gold coin exported from the republic of Panama.

Sec. 9. Citizens of the republic of Panama shall have, so far as concerns the United States, entire freedom of voting at elections held in the republic of Panama and its provinces or municipalities, at such places outside of the canal zone as may be fixed by the republic, and under such conditions as the republic may determine; but nothing herein is to be construed as intended to limit the power of the republic to exclude or restrict the rights of such citizens as it may be deemed judicious.

Sec. 10. The highway extending from the eastern limits of the city of Panama, as fixed in the above-mentioned provisional delimitation of June, 1904, to the point still further to the eastward where the road to Savannah crosses the zone line (which is five miles eastward of the center axis of the canal) shall be repaired and maintained in a serviceable condition at the cost and expense of the authorities of the canal zone, and also in like manner the said road from the said eastern limits of the city of Panama to the railroad bridge in the city of Panama shall be repaired at the cost of the authorities of the canal zone; but this order shall not be operative unless the republic of Panama shall waive its claims for compensation for the use in perpetuity of municipal buildings located in the canal zone.

Sec. 11. The United States will construct, maintain and conduct a hospital, or hospitals, either in the canal zone or in the territory of the republic, at its option, for the treatment of persons insane or afflicted with the disease of leprosy, and any indigent, sick, and the United States will accept for treatment therein such persons of said classes as the republic may require; but this order shall not be operative unless, first, the republic of Panama shall furnish without cost the requisite lands for said purposes, if the United States shall locate such hospital or hospitals in the territory of the republic, and, second, that the republic shall contribute and pay to the United States a reasonable daily per capita charge in respect of each patient entering upon the request of the republic, to be fixed by the Secretary of War of the United States.

Sec. 12. The operation of this executive order and its enforcement by officials of the United States on the one hand, or compliance with the performance of the conditions of its operations by the republic of Panama and its officials on the other, shall not be taken as a delimitation, definition, restriction nor restrictive construction of the rights of either party under the treaty between the United States and the republic of Panama.

This order is to take effect on the 12th day of December, 1904.

[Signed] W. H. TAFT,
Secretary of War.

Secretary Taft received the following letters sent by President Amador and Señor Guardia, Minister for Foreign Affairs:

"Sir: As the embodiment of the conclusions reached by our respective governments, after the full and satisfactory conferences which have been held between you and myself and advisers, I have the pleasure to express the concurrence of the republic in the executive order of the Secretary of War, made by direction of the President of the United States, under date of this, the 3d day of December, 1904. Aside from the wisdom and justice evidenced by this happy solution of the differences between the United States and the republic of Panama, permit me to express in behalf of the republic and of myself and advisers, our gratitude for your gracious visit to Panama and your patient, judicial and statesmanlike considerations of the subjects involved.

"I have the honor to be, my dear Mr. Secretary, and with assurances of my highest esteem, sincerely yours,

The Masonic Lodge has elected the following officers: W.M., Richard Loynes; S.W., E. P. Dewey; J.W., W. Clifford Smith; Treasurer, W. C. Bowers; Secretary, Evan Mosher.

Rev. Frank L. Norton, of the First Baptist Church has received a call to Everett, Wash., and will probably accept.

The Well to do Brother.

Frank Ver Beck, the illustrator, has a brother who is a very successful business man. Among a party of visitors to Mr. Ver Beck's studio, one day recently, was a lady who met him for the first time. In the course of the conversation one of the callers made a reference to this brother.

"Some friends of mine," observed the lady, "know your brother. I believe he is very well to do, is he not?"

"On the contrary," replied Mr. Ver Beck sadly, "he is very hard to do. I asked him to lend me $5 last week, and he had the impertinence to say that when I returned the five I borrowed last summer perhaps he would think about letting me have this one."—[Saturday Evening Post.

LOCAL POLITICS.

CLOSE FINISHES OF MUNICIPAL RACERS.

Most Exciting and Doubtful of City's Political Campaigns.

Predictions of the Republican and Democratic Leaders About Five Thousand Votes Apart—Both Sides Will Keep Challengers Busy Looking Out for Attempts to Vote on Fraudulent Names.

NECK and neck in the stretch, making for a cyclonic finish that bids fair to eclipse any other in the annals of municipal politics, was the midnight dope on the Mayoralty Derby.

Too close to tempt the coin of the sporting fraternity, the final quarter between Snyder and McAleer is spectacular and exciting. Each stable last night claimed the victory, but the result hangs so evenly in the balance that neither party showed any inclination to back its opinion with a wager.

"Even money on Snyder," read the headlines of a Spring-street bulletin board at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. A McAleer adherent passed $100 over the counter at the cigar stand where the sign was displayed. But half of it was taken and the headlines were promptly changed to read "Even money on McAleer."

A prominent lawyer made the rounds of the political pike twice during the afternoon. He had $500 which had been entrusted to him to place on the Mayoralty race where it would be likely to bring the largest returns. "This is too close for me," said he, shortly after sundown. "I am going to take that money over to the office and lock it up in the safe."

Sunday closing ordinances were smashed to smithereens, but nobody cared. Pikers congregated in back rooms of saloons, in billiard halls and about the street corners, talking loud for Snyder—but that was all. The specter of the silent vote overawed them and McAleer money went begging.

FRAUDULENT REGISTRATIONS.

Exposure in Sunday morning's Times of wholesale frauds in election registration threw consternation into Democratic headquarters. Capt. Cake in the Snyder laager claimed that the exposure was a Republican trick. He nonsensically said that if the frauds had not been shown up in The Times scores of arrests would have been made by the Democrats. Selah!

"We have placed the number of fraudulent registrations at 2800," said Capt. Cake. "Our workers have made a careful poll of every precinct in the city. Early in the campaign we discovered that the precinct books carried a number of phony names and dummy addresses. We have them all listed by themselves. They have been turned over to the precinct challengers and any attempt to vote an elector who does not exist will mean trouble for the offender.

Capt. Cake exhibited a number of precinct books. In each there were mysterious checks after a number of names. Reference to the first of the book showed that this meant "phony address" or "not known at address given."

Eddie Morris, Democratic dictator of the east end of the Third Ward, declared that the false registrations were an attempt on the part of the opposition to "do me."

"But their work is too coarse," Eddie went on. "Those guineas who tried that got off wrong. Why I know almost every resident of the east end of the Third Ward. That work is decidedly amateurish. In one of my precincts where there are but 280 voters the phony registration has increased the number to over 400. Any time they think they can work in ringers like that on me they have another guess coming."

Chairman McGarvin of the Republican Executive Committee places the number of phony registrations at something over 3000. He said that in every precinct in the city except one a record had been taken of the dummy names on the precinct books and that precinct challengers would be prepared to expose any attempt at fraudulent voting.

Jack Wright, secretary of the Republican City Central Committee said that much of the phony registration was in his opinion, due to over-zealousness on the part of the registration clerks. He said that the practice of allowing a registration clerk 5 cents for each name registered had much to do with the fraud.

"I registered a great many voters in the league boks myself," said Mr. Wright, "In a number of cases their autobiographies did not look good to me and I would make an investigation before turning the registration slip over to the County Clerk. The result was that I tore up at least twenty slips. Each time I did so it meant 5 cents out of my own pocket and the trouble of making an investigation.

"Registration clerks on the streets did not go to this trouble. They registered all comers. The same man might have registered twenty-five times in the city under that number of aliases.

"Examination of the registration slips to show what clerk was responsible for the frauds would not accomplish anything; there would be no way to prove that the registration clerk himself had not been imposed upon by a false affidavit.

"Verification of names and addresses by the County Clerk before placing them on the great register is the only way in which this false registration could be avoided."

In addition to the Democratic and Republican challengers at the polls today all the voting places in downtown precincts will be covered by Municipal League challengers. These challengers will be equipped with cameras and they will take photographs of every person who swears in his vote.

In a contest as close as the one which will be fought out to a finish today every vote counts and the remarkable influx of newcomers during the last two years gives especial opportunities for fraudulent voting.

"I feel foolish to admit it," said one veteran precinct captain last night, "but there are so many newcomers out our way that I am practically a stranger in my own bailiwick. I shall be on the lookout for repeaters, but I shall have a hard time of it on account of the newcomers. To challenge a man who has a right to vote and make him swear in his vote will nine times out of ten make him your enemy for life. But if I take no such chances they can repeat to their heart's content.

DON'T KICK IF CHALLENGED.

Chairman McGarvin requested The Times to advise all Republicans not to be perturbed if their vote should be challenged today. "The challengers will be there to prevent fraud," he said. "There have been so many fraudulent registrations that in order to make certain that they are not letting anything slip by them, the challengers will probably hold up a number who have a right to vote."

SNYDER HARD PRESSED.

Veteran Democratic politicians last night admitted that Snyder was harder pressed on the eve of election than he had ever been before.

"We have four workers in the field to their one, and we have $5 to their $1 to pay for work done," said one veteran chief of the unterrified, "but with all that we cannot get a line on the silent vote. The center of town precincts are ours, but ugly rumors keep persistently coming in that the silent vote is against us. I don't like the looks of it."

Scarcity of McAleer working capital has somewhat handicapped the Republican Executive Committee, but Chairman McGarvin said yesterday afternoon that over the greater portion of the city volunteers had taken up the work that in former campaigns could only be had by paying cash.

"We have handled very little money," said Mr. McGarvin, "but it will not be necessary to handle much; the volunteers are doing service that money could not purchase. It is on the volunteer force that we are staking our chances for success. I think they shall win for us and win handsomely."

Martin Marsh, treasurer of the City Executive Committee insisted that he had handled less money this campaign than ever before.

"The trouble has been," said Mr. Marsh last night, "that a number of the Democratic candidates have handled their own campaign and paid out their own money. That has left me little or no funds. This is the eve of election and I am flat broke."

HOW CLOSE IT IS.

Estimates by the Republican and Democratic leaders show a variation of but a little over 5000 in a total of 20,000 votes which they expect to see cast.

Here are the estimates of majorities by wards made late yesterday afternoon. The Democratic estimate is a composite of that of Martin Marsh and James Craig and the Republican estimate is that Chairman McGarvin made during a conference with a number of his ward managers.

"EL HUTCH" AND M'CARTHY TRY TO SAVE HOWTON.

Sympathy Racket Doesn't Go With Sixth Warders—How Property Values Have Suffered Through Howtonism—Trio of Fakers to be Repudiated—Fennessy's Deep Woe.

Disgusted with the latest fake of Spook Doctor Howton, voters of the Sixth Ward are preparing to repudiate labor-unionism, socialism, anarchy, and Howtonism today by electing W. J. Scholl to the Council.

There are hundreds of voters in the Ward, whose property has suffered, who are glad of the opportunity to redeem its good name.

Howton from the platform in the Sixth Ward had made the threat to smash the face or punch the head of more than one man. This sounded good to some of the Sixth Warders, and it made him friends. But when he took to his bed for a week "with nervous prostration" after the first attempt, the bubble was burst.

Testimony of physicians in the Police Court that Howton had received no serious injury, but only a good thrashing at the hands of Conkling, settled Howton's case. The "brain concussion" story passed the limit. Where are Howton's brains?

Men who Tuesday were declaring for Howton were Saturday repudiating him. Yesterday afternoon an attempted meeting of his workers at No. 2006 San Pedro street was a flat failure.

Many of the supposed workers responded to the call for a meeting with notes telling that they were done with Howton and Howtonism.

El Hutch's campaign for Howton only made matters worse for the Spook Doctor. It was a bit of the Eighth Ward dropped down into the Sixth. The red lighters had repudiated Hutch and he did not look good to the workers south of Ninth street. The Sixth Ward had one of the hardest fights of its history nine months ago to keep the scum of the cribs from settling within its borders. Hutch was the defender of Ballerino and what Ballerino stood for. After he lost there he came down into the Sixth Ward to defend Howton. That was too much for the respectable element of the Sixth Ward.

Then J. Harvey McCarthy came in his green automobile with visored cap and spectacled chauffeur, to work for Howton. But J. Harvey didn't help matters any. As he rode along the residence streets of the ward, mothers stood in the doorways with children in their arms and heaped imprecations on him and his so-called "investment company."

Dictator Fennessy is so sore over the new developments in the Howton sympathy campaign that he has to go around done up in antiseptic cotton. Before the Democratic primaries Fennessy was the dictator who held the Sixth Ward in the hollow of his hand. Since his downfall he has not been permitted to even attend a Howton meeting. All that he has been allowed to do is to sit in the back room of a printing office and address envelopes carrying Howton circulars.

WITH BACK TO WALL.

WERDIN'S LAST STAND.

Standing with his back to the wall and fighting against seemingly impossible odds, Street Superintendent Werdin has during the last three days made a showing that has surprised even his own supporters.

Convicted by public opinion and by the press of extravagance in office, a target for the darts and slings of Citizen Fixit and his grand jury and the Municipal League, opposed to a candidate with a clean record and a good name, and yet in the face of it all making progress against the adverse tide, Werdin has suddenly loomed up as a dangerous factor in the race for Street Superintendent.

Gathering courage from the example of dogged determination set by their chief, each of the 400 employés of the Street Department have been taking part in a house to house canvass, making personal appeals to the women, in case the men were away, to "Vote for Werdin because it means my job and food for the wife and children."

This personal appeal movement has had at its head the indomitable Pat Doyle, who has suddenly blossomed forth as the father of six children who are dependent on his job in the Street Department for support.

And Pat's appeal has not been without effect. "I think Jim Hanley is going to win," said Martin Marsh last night, "but it will only be by a squeak. There is no beating that campaign which the laborers in the Street Department are making for Werdin. Why, last night when I went home to supper, the madame comes to me, and says, 'Martin,' says she, 'I think you ought to vote for Werdin. He don't seem to be a bad fellow.' Then she named an Irishman living on the next street who drives a sprinkling cart and said that his wife had been to her during the afternoon to implore her to get me to vote for Werdin so as to keep her husband a job. I tell you that kind of politics will win in the long run, no matter in whose interest it is done."

The Pickwickian report of Citizen Fixit's grand jury appears to have been a strong Werdin card. Before that report was made public, the odds were three and in some instances four to one against Werdin. Last night they dropped to ten to six.

Party lines appear to have been obliterated in the Street Department contest. John Drain, who opposed Werdin in the Republican convention, is out openly for Hanley, as is A. P. Fleming, who made a nominating address for one of the defeated candidates. On the other hand, Craig and Underwood, the candidates who opposed Hanley in the Democratic convention are working for Werdin.

The great bulk of the literature sent out from Republican headquarters has been Werdin literature, while both the Democratic Committee and the Municipal League have burdened the mails with Hanley pamphlets.

Friday the congestion of the mails was so great that it was evident that no more campaign literature sent through the post office would be delivered before election. Then house to house delivery was resorted to and school boys Saturday and Sunday turned a pretty penny delivering circulars.

It is conceded that enough Republicans will vote against Werdin to defeat its chief if the Democrats stand fast. But all indications yesterday pointed to a Democratic land-slide to Werdin east of Main street. Wagers were offered that Werdin's majority in the Seventh and Eighth wards would be as great as Snyder's, and there were no takers. At the same time, Hanley men were going 'round with chips on their shoulders, trying to get some one to take up their bet that Hanley would carry the Third and Fourth wards.

Capt. Cake at Democratic headquarters claims that Hanley will win by 3500, but no Hanley men could be found last night who would wager that their favorite would win by half that plurality.

Conservatives pick Hanley as the winner and place his plurality at between 1000 and 1500.

SCHEME TO SPOIL VOTES.

Snyder-Werdin Gang's Alleged Plot to Invalidate Ballots Before Cast.

A report has been received at Republican headquarters of a plot of the Snyder-Werdin combination to defeat the wishes of honest voters by illegally marking certain ballots and at the same time creating a means for throwing the election into the courts in the event that the race is very close.

The law provides that whenever a distinguishing mark is found upon a ballot—any mark which would enable it to be recognized as having been voted by any certain person—that ballot shall be void and therefore shall not be counted. The scheme of the conspirators is to spot some of the ballots before they are cast in such a manner as to make it appear that voters have placed distinguishing marks upon them.

It is a well-known fact that the unholy combination between the Mayor and the Street Superintendent has secured for them almost complete control of the election boards in some of the precincts, and it is in these that the dirty work is programmed.

In handing a voter his ballot it would be an easy matter for a clerk to make a mark upon it which would not attract the voter's attention, but which would be pointed out when the vote was counted, and with the remaining members of that election board standing in, the vote could be thrown out.

THE SLAUGHTER HOUSE QUESTION.

A Straightforward Statement by Simon Maier Addressed to Voters of Los Angeles.

During the entire Slaughter House campaign I have purposely kept out of the public press, and have been content to leave the entire controversy to the judgment of those who are interested in the continued prosperity of the city. I should not now, at the very end of the campaign, have a word to say but for a statement contained in the Sunday morning papers in regard to alleged negotiations for the purchase of a portion of our holdings to be used by a competitor in business, which, by implication at least, charged the Cudahy and myself with attempting to create a monopoly and "play a freeze-out game."

I beg to assure my friends that I am now as I have always been in the past, in favor of legitimate competition. My Company is the owner of a tract of land, in the city, a portion of which is embraced within the present and proposed Packing House District, a part of which, early in the controversy I offered to sell to the Hauser Packing Company, to be used by it for its proposed Packing and business. While such negotiations were pending The Times of November 8th, contained a statement purporting to emanate from the Hauser Company, that no proposition had been made for a sale of land for its plant.

I prepared a written proposition and caused the same to be personally delivered to Mr. Hauser, in which I offered (to sell him land for his plant) in the following words: "I will give you an option to purchase a part of our property located in the Eighth Ward, now within the present Slaughtering Limits, for you to use as a location for a Packing and Killing House, Cattle Pens, etc., said portion to be located as may be hereafter agreed upon at price of Five Thousand ($5,000.00) Dollars per Acre."

To this offer I received a reply in writing containing the following: "I gladly accept the principle involved in the offer, but as to the price of $5,600.00 per acre, fixed by you, I desire to say in reply that I do not consider the land worth Five Thousand (5,000) Dollars per Acre, but hereby offer you therefor, at the rate of Four Thousand ($4,000.00) Dollars per Acre for such land within the Slaughter-house District, as will be suitable for the Packing House Plant which I intend to construct and provide for."

Nothing further was heard from him in regard to a purchase of land, of the number of acres necessary for his plant, or what size plant he desired to erect. During the several talks prior to the written proposition from two (2) to four (4) agres had been mentioned, and when they wanted space for an office on a public street, the Cudahy Company proposed to furnish ground for that purpose on Macey street.

Does this look like a hold-up or a freeze-out game? Both Cudahy and myself were willing to prevent any further agitation over the slaughter-house question. We made our offers in good faith.

How does the written evidence compare with the statement made in the Sunday papers, that I had asked ten thousand ($10,000.00) per acre? We have no fight with anyone, and only seek to protect our own investments and business. I think my business standing in this community for more than a quarter of a century is a sufficient guarantee that I am not in the "hold-up business." During the time I am not extravagant in saying that I have spent more money for stock, supplies and labor than all the other packing-houses combined. My policy is now, as it has always been, liberal, and my ambition to upbuild the city. I have no doubt that the voters will deal fairly with my interests at the polls today. Vote against the total exclusion ordinance by placing an (X) in the second space from the top. Vote for the Eighth Ward ordinance by placing an (X) in the third space from the top. If you want a plant in the Sixth Ward, make your marks as above directed, and also place an (X) in the second from the bottom. Yours in the second from the bottom alone is not sufficient.

Thanking you in advance, I am, sincerely yours,

SIMON MAIER.

EXCITEMENT HIGH IN COCHISE.

INDICTMENT AND ARREST OF COUNTY OFFICIALS.

Hospital Steward in Jail and County Physician Johnson Released on Five Thousand Dollars Bail—Midnight Race of His Attorney from Bisbee to Tombstone.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) Dec. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Cochise county grand jury last night made a report containing a scathing denunciation of the County Hospital, the Board of Supervisors, the County Assessor and other county officers. The severest criticism was of the county physician, Dr. Johnson, and the hospital. Dr. Johnson was arraigned on the charge of having furnished poor food, filthy bedding and inferior medicines to patients, and Steward Revas of the hospital was accused of treating patients cruelly and selling clothes of the deceased.

Johnson and Revas were indicted on sworn testimony of patients. They were arrested, and Revas is confined in the Tombstone County Jail. Johnson was released on $5000 bail.

The Board of Supervisors was arraigned for alleged extravagance and making expenditures unwaranted by law. Bowen was accused of putting in personal property below valuation, and failing to correct shortages as chairman of the Board of Equalization.

The grand jury's report is the most sensational ever made in Cochise county, and excitement is running high here and in Tombstone and Douglas. Dr. Johnson's attorney, Williams, left at midnight to drive thirty-two miles to Tombstone in a buggy.

Frank Johnson, who was acquitted in the justice of the peace court of the murder of Jack Evans, was indicted by the grand jury and rearrested last night. More sensational developments are promised. Dist.-Atty.-elect Flannigan was called before Judge Doan and instructed to prosecute, civilly and criminally, all parties mentioned in the report. Further arrests are momentarily expected.

GOT HIS MAN.

Deputy Sheriff's Long Wait for a Chance Was Rewarded at Last.

Deputy Sheriff W. T. Holman was a happy man last night, when he landed Irving Long in the County Jail, charged with assault and resisting an officer. Long is a young tough, who was a member of the gang that broke up the Jewish picnic at Schuetzen Park July 31. To the members of that gang he is known as John Edwards, and to the "Jolly Six Club," "Tee Hee Club" and other disorderly organizations, he is known as just "Dutch."

Long was arrested at the home of his father on the corner of Trenton and Pico about noon on August 3. His mother begged that her son be allowed to put on some better clothes, and the request was granted by Holman. The culprit went into the house and made his escape on a Pico Heights car. That night Holman found "Dutch" in the Butler House in Long Beach and attempted to handcuff him, but the proprietor, Bob Marin interfered, and "Dutch" made his escape again. Finally he was found buried under some hay in a livery stable in Long Beach, and brought to this city, and held under $1000 bond. The case through a legal technicality was dismissed, and Holman has been watching for another, chance ever since. He got in on Spring street last night, meeting his man face to face. There was a moment of recognition on the part of both, and the next instant "Dutch" was jerked off his feet by the nape of the neck.

MISSION STARTED FOR KOREAN BOYS.

THE only Korean mission work in the United States, so far as known, has opened its doors in Los Angeles, and yesterday services were held by a native preacher, Dev. Hugh Cynn, at the mission house, No. 1519 South Hill street. This institution will be one of the features of Los Angeles missionary effort hereafter.

Strange as it may seem, no effort appears to have been made by the evangelical Christian denominations to reach the Koreans in this country, until the Methodists of Los Angeles undertook the work. They have leased a two-story building at the above-mentioned number, and this is to be not only a mission chapel, but a religious and educational headquarters for the Koreans in this part of the country.

Mrs. Florence M. Sherman, a former missionary to Korea, has been made superintendent of the mission, and Dr. A. W. Adkinson, the presiding elder of the Los Angeles district, has appointed Rev. Hugh Cynn, a student at the University of Southern California, as the pastor for his brethren in this city. Mr. Cynn preached last night.

There are now twelve inmates of the mission home—bright Korean boys, who are very anxious to acquire an English education and receive instruction in the Christian religion. They show aptitude for study and apply themselves industriously.

Most of the Korean boys have positions in various households of the city during the days, and come to the mission for their instruction at night. There are nightly classes in English, and twice a week religious services are held.

While the present Korean population of Los Angeles amounts only to a small handful, it is expected that within the next few months there will be many new arrivals, especially from Hawaii, where there are now over four thousand employed on the plantations.

Many of these people have a great desire to secure an education, and Mr. Cynn stated last night that he knew of a number who had made plans to come to Los Angeles to make use of its educational advantages. He expects to find several of his own countrymen enrolled in the University of Southern California next year.

Besides the chapel on the first floor of the Hill-street residence, there are rooms which are given over to the Korean boys, and where they keep house for themselves, it being the intention of the mission workers to encourage them to make this location their general home, so that they may be surrounded constantly by the best Christian influences.

GOING FROM PACIFIC COAST TO GO TO GERMANY.

Unique Christmas Gift Which Will Leave Los Angeles Today for the Fatherland—Material Gathered for It During Five Years, and Many Curios Represented.

Among the many boxes, packages and parcels which will be carried out from Los Angeles today by the transportation companies and started on their way to make Christmas joy in homelands far away, there will be a box with contents so unique and attractive that its like probably could not be found in many days' search.

WILD WESTERN CHAIR, MADE OF HORNS.

This is a beautiful arm chair, made of twenty-eight pairs of highly-polished and symmetrically curved horns. The seat is upholstered in rich dark green plush, and the trimmings are in the same color. The whole effect is rich and pleasing, while the chair is a model embodiment of comfort itself.

All the way from Los Angeles to Hamburg, Germany, this chair will go; for it is a Christmas gift from C. Snyder and Arthur Stephan of San Pedro street to an old friend in the Fatherland.

More than five years ago Mr. Snyder began to collect material for this valuable chair. Here and there all over the western country he has picked up beautifully curved and highly-polished horns of steers and buffalo, and at last he found that the required material was at hand, and a little over a year ago he and his brother-in-law, Stephan, began the constructive work, putting in their spare time on the tedious labors of polishing, turning, mounting and carving, until at last the wonderful chair began to give promise of symmetrical outlines. Last week it was completed, and since then it has been the admiration of everybody. The other day Mr. Snyder had an offer of $300 for the chair, but remained steadfast in his idea of taking it back to the dearly-beloved fatherland in Germany.

The upper section of the chair's back is composed of several sets of magnificent horns of deep black, which were secured by Mr. Snyder from a man who had brought them in from the ranches on the plains. The handsome-ly-polished horns which form the arms encircled the proud head of a Texas steer; and there are horns of the Mexican steer representing almost the entire eastern coast.

The chair, while massive in appearance, is very strongly constructed, and not only constructed the frame of the chair, but they also did the upholstering, and the excellence of their work is attested by the admiration of persons who have seen the piece of workmanship during the last few days.

DEADLY THRUSTS OF STILETTO.

ITALIAN SINKS UNDER KNIFE OF UNKNOWN.

Man Murdered Yesterday Afternoon Within Two Blocks of His Home May Have Been Victim of Infamous Mafia—Mystery Surrounds the Case.

With blood gushing from two stiletto wounds in neck and abdomen, Alfonso Rusio, an Italian, about 35 years old, staggered into his boarding-house at No. 748 Cleveland street at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and sank unconscious on the floor. Dr. Sassella attended the injured man, who was later removed to the Receiving Hospital, where he died at 7:30 o'clock last night.

Rusio was murdered within two blocks of his home, but who wielded the stiletto that pierced his vitals is not known, as the wounded man was unable to give the name of his assailant, or a clear account of the stabbing before he died. A dozen or more police detectives scoured the Italian quarter last night looking for Rusio's murderer, but no tangible clew could be found.

Mystery surrounds the murder, which the police think may have been due to a secret vendetta. A motive for the deed is not apparent, and members of the local Italian colony confess themselves thoroughly at sea.

After Dr. Sassella was called to attend Rusio he rallied slightly, and told the physician and Mrs. John Leonmazzi, his landlady, that he had only been away from the house a few minutes, as he was on his way to a near-by store to purchase tobacco, when an unknown man stepped up and thrust a stiletto into his abdomen, withdrew it, and then sank it to the hilt in his throat.

At the Receiving Hospital Rusio could scarcely tell his own name. He died before the surgeons could operate on him. An inquest will be held at Pierce Bros.' morgue Tuesday, when evidence may be brought out which will tend to prove the identity of the murderer.

SAN DIEGO.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 4.—H. A. Barker has made his last report as receiver of the Golden Cross mines at Hedges. He has turned the property over to the Board of Managers, all the liabilities and expenses having been paid. The receiverships have continued for a number of years, Isaac Trumbo having been the first. The receipts for the last month of receivership were $33,000 and the disbursements $20,900, leaving cash on hand of $12,100. The bullion product of the mines during the five months of Mr. Barker's receivership was $56,000, and the net increase, after the payment of all expenses, fees, taxes, insurance, etc., was $12,526.

LODGE OF SORROW.

The Elks held their annual lodge of sorrow at the Isis Theater this afternoon. John G. Mott of the Los Angeles lodge delivered the address and M. L. Ward of this city the eulogy. Rev. Dr. J. L. Pitner, who chanced to be in the city, took part in the service. The musical part of the programme was by a choir of forty voices.

THRASHED HER MOTHER.

Octavia Butler has been found guilty of striking her mother with a horse whip. Mrs. Butler came here three months ago with her husband and mother. She and her mother quarreled frequently. Yesterday the mother made a call on a neighboring street. While there the daughter carted her effects to the front of the house where her mother was calling and deposited them on the sidewalk. The mother remonstrated and the daughter struck her two sharp cuts with the horse whip.

Owners of Ruined Store Order Goods By Wire.

Losses and Insurance About as Published.

"While we have sustained a severe loss, we are trying to be cheerful," said Frank Humphreys, president of the Standard Woodenware Company, last night. "This company is made up of young fellows, most of whom are hustlers on the road, and we do not expect to lose a dollar's worth of business as a result of this fire. C. B. Boothe, son-in-law and local representative of the owner of the building, will be on the ground early tomorrow morning with his contractor, and will arrange for immediate rebuilding without waiting for insurance adjustments. I and my co-workers have spent this entire day ordering goods from the East and we have heavy shipments in transit for the winter trade. All undelivered orders will be filled as if there had been no fire."

Mr. Humphreys could not place an estimate as to the net loss until after further investigations. The stock of the company was insured for between $80,000 and $90,000 and it is believed that the net loss after the insurance is paid will be about $20,000 or $25,000.

Mr. Boothe states that the original cost of the building was $55,000. That part formerly occupied by John Wigmore & Sons Company was damaged by water principally, only a part of the top of the elevator shaft being burned. The other portion is a total loss, as the walls still standing are sprung and will have to be rebuilt. The estimated loss is about $30,000 and is entirely covered by insurance.

So large was the crowd of spectators that stood in front of the building all day yesterday that several policemen behind heavy ropes had to be detailed to hold the people back. In the rear of the ruins where the second and third floors had collapsed, a pile of debris smouldered and two hose lines played streams of water on it until late in the evening. The basement was filled with water to a depth of four feet and a small river ran out of the ground floor of the building. The interior looked like a woodenware drummer's nightmare, baskets, brushes, tubs, pails, cordage, etc., all jumbled in a charred mass. The front of the ground floor was used as a sample room and the fire and water had invaded it just enough to leave things distinguishable, but badly disfigured by the mix-up. The broom factory in the rear of the building and separated by a fire wall was not damaged.

Capt. C. B. Casey of engine company No. 16, lost the tip of the second finger on his right hand by falling glass during the fire, and picking up the piece, he had it sewed on again at the Receiving Hospital.

SOLEMN SERVICE FOR THEIR DEAD.

ELKS RECALL VIRTUES OF DEPARTED BROTHERS.

Annual Memorial Draws a Large Audience to Burbank Theater, Where the Los Angeles Lodge Participates in the Beautiful Custom of the Order.

The Burbank Theater was filled yesterday afternoon with members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, their families and friends, in commemoration of the annual memorial services for the order's dead, held throughout the United States on the first Sunday in December.

Yesterday's services were particularly subdued and impressive. The opening ceremonies were conducted by Exalted Ruler Ralph Hagan and fellow officers of Los Angeles Lodge, No. 99, B.P.O.E., and responded to by the large body of members occupying the main portion of the auditorium.

Following the singing of the opening ode by all the Elks in chorus, Rev. Robert J. Burdette delivered an impressive invocation.

Brother George Combe of Phoenix Lodge, No. 335, sang "The Palms," which was followed by a solo, "With Holy Thought," by Johan Haal Zinck.

The oration was spoken by Coyle J. Tracy of Pasadena Lodge. He dwelt most sympathetically upon the subjects close to the hearts of all present.

After the singing of "The Lost Chord," by Jean B. Poulin of Toledo Lodge, the eulogy was pronounced by W. O. Norton of Fort Worth Lodge.

One of the pleasures of the afternoon was afforded by E. S. Shank, in his singing of "Jerusalem." After the closing exercises by the lodge, "Praise Thou My Soul" was sung by H. H. Barnhart. The benediction was pronounced by Brother Lawrence Holmes of Los Angeles Lodge, followed by "Nearer, My God, to Thee," by the audience.

A feature of the Elks' memorial service that is always impressive is the roll call of the departed, when the name of each member that the lodge has lost by death is called three times in succession by the secretary before he is recorded absent. The death roster of the Los Angeles lodge now numbers thirty-six. The members lost during the year now closing were J. E. Waldeck, W. O. Gilkey, C. C. Page, F. D. Rogers and D. R. Clay.

The memorial committee that had yesterday's services in charge was composed of W. F. Kennedy, Byron Erkenbrecher, John Luckenbach, Frank Bryson, Theo. Lööman, Joseph Montrose, T. Q. Hall, John F. Howard, Rex Belcher, Walter Goldsmith, Oliver Morosco, Guy T. Hill.

GIVES BODY AWAY.

An old man by the name of Deforest Atkinson, who has suffered with hip disease for three years, as the result of a railroad accident died at No. 450 Mateo street yesterday morning. His dying request was that his body be given to some medical college in this city to do with as it pleased.

SAW RIPS HAND.

George J. Hornak of No. 419 West Second street, an employé of the Los Angeles Planing Mill cut his hand on a rip saw Saturday and twenty stitches were taken in it at the Emergency Hospital.

DOESN'T BLAME THE DOG.

P. Hughes, an Englishman, living at No. 912 West First street, came to the Receiving Hospital yesterday afternoon with a bad tear in his trousers and a wound in his leg as the result of an encounter with a vicious dog on Spring street. He said that he knew the owner and that he is going after him instead of the dog for revenge.

I don't see how the men who make fancy hosiery can think of so many different patterns.

I should think they would run short of ideas. And it seems to me that every year fancy hosiery gets prettier and prettier. I think the patterns in our fancy hosiery are just as pretty as the patterns in our neckwear. Some come in spots, some with little touches of color, some with curious striped effects.

You know most of our fancy hosiery comes in patterns that are not sold by all the other fellows in town.

I know very well that plenty of men who buy our fancy hosiery at 50c would buy them just as quickly if they were marked 75c.

I was thinking of giving that tip to the manager, but he's been kind of sore at me ever since he found out that the dollar I borrowed from him was to back a thirty-to-one shot out at Ascot.

WHERE MILLIONAIRES ARE SCARCE.

There are not 20,000 millionaires (that is, possessors of one million francs, or $193,000) in all France. The great wealth of that country is divided into a vast number of small savings, and a glance at the inheritances figures is very interesting. Let it be remembered, too, that these statistics are accurate, for the French law permits precise cataloguing of the people's fortunes; it enables interested persons to learn how, into how many and how large parts fortunes are divided when inherited, and to learn what each person possesses, so far as the figures furnished by the courts of inheritance can supply that information. A writer in Le Rentier, a well-known French financial paper, discussing French inheritances, says in part:

"The statistics of inheritances, as well as the real and personal property records, prove that French property is well divided. We are able to affirm once more that if France is rich, very rich, her wealth belongs to a majority and not to a minority of her people. The rich and the excessively opulent, possessing millions, are hardly to be counted by units; they may be designated by hands.

"The large fortunes are limited to a few people—possibly ten persons possess each $19,300,000 and over; 100 may have between $1,930,000 and $9,650,000; 600 may have between $965,000 and $1,930,000; 4000 have from $386,000 to $965,000, and 13,000 have from $193,000 to $386,000 each. By descending the scale we come to the "rich." Possibly 26,000 persons possess fortunes ranging from $96,500 to $193,000; 56,000 have from $48,250 to $96,500, and 163,000 have from $19,300 to $48,250 each. We find 262,000 with from $9650 to $19,300, and 1,548,000 with from $1930 up to $9650. There are 2,800,000 persons possessing from $386 to $1930; 3,900,000 who have from $96.50 to $386; and at the bottom are 4,000,000 who own less than $96.50."

The immense army of small savers in France, the financial democracy, is a notable feature of the republic's internal life, and constitutes, according to the writer above quoted, "the force and safeguard of France." He points out, also, that instead of many immense fortunes one finds large numbers of persons holding investments, possessing bonds, owning small parcels of real estate, and living on modest resources and revenues. Out of 10,000,000 voters there are 7,000,000 to 8,000,000 who are capitalists and owners of interest-bearing stock, landed proprietors, holders of Parisian bonds, Credit Foncier bonds, railroad bonds, national bonds—members of co-operative bodies, people who put by for the rainy day small sums in the banks, that serve to assure life or insure against death.

EUROPE AND ASIA.

The great game of empire goes bravely on. The pawns on the chessboard, if not actually shifting, are being nervously fingered. A few days ago it looked very much as though Russia and Japan might suddenly cease slaughtering each other and form an alliance for the control of Asia against the rest of the world. But perhaps that was just a canard thrown out by Russia to frighten the other white men's countries into a sense of the danger that threatened them from the power of the real Asiatics—the Japs and the Chinese. Russian diplomats are noted for their finesse and genius. Maybe the rumor of that alliance with Japan, therefore, was merely one of Russia's clever moves on the board. If so, it has evidently had an instantaneous effect. Yesterday's gossip from the seats of the mighty strongly indicates that some exceedingly strange things are happening.

To begin with, it is being made quite manifest that back of all Japan's suave assurances to the powers that it is her intention to assist in preserving the autonomy of China, now and hereafter, and to preserve that country as an open-port trading ground for the commerce of the entire world, the little brown man has a well-concocted scheme up his sleeve to do just the opposite of his announced intentions. It is stated that Germany is in possession of correspondence from China showing that "Japanese agents are penetrating every part of the Chinese empire distributing tracts and disseminating the idea that Asia should be for the Asiatics, that no European power has rights in its territory or in the trade of the Far East, and that Japan is fighting for all Asia in forcing Russia back." The knowledge of these facts, together with other facts and observations, have firmly convinced German statesmen that Japan is laying the foundations for a vast oriental empire. As a consequence, it naturally appears that all Europe has real cause for alarm.

The feeling that Russia has been fighting the battles of all Europe against her Asiatic foes has grown so strong that even England has become convinced of it, although she is bound to Japan by an alliance. And in order to believe that England regrets the position she occupies it is only necessary to note the fact that she has practically laid no obstacles whatever in the way of the movements of Russia's Baltic fleets, when she might easily have done so. She has not only done practically nothing to help Japan, but has actually lent her assistance to Russia by allowing the Muscovite war vessels to secure enormous supplies of coal from Wales. There can be no doubt but Japan has allowed the mask to fall. She became cocky over her victories and in her swelled-up condition allowed the cat to get out of the bag.

In the very beginning of the present struggle The Times contended that the real situation was exactly what everybody is now beginning to believe it to be. We said that Russia's battle was Europe's battle—indeed, the battle of the white man the world over against the yellow man. We said then that there was no prejudice against the Mongolian in the mind or the heart of the Caucasian, but, per contra, there was an implacable hatred of the white man in the yellow man's breast. And it is true. It is a pity it is true, but it is true, nevertheless.

The great game grows interesting. The master players are becoming restless. Soon we shall see some startling moves made on the great chessboard.

Among certain blue Monday morning thoughts, it may be no harm to mention the following: The high liver is invariably the person with a bad liver; also burning the candle at both ends soon leaves the burner in the dark; in addition to which it should not be forgotten that you can't fool the old man with the scythe.

If every citizen who votes today will regard the various candidates as persons who are applying to him for employment, the vote is apt to be right. Office holders are merely the people's hired men and the people should endeavor to get the best help possible for their money.

Tokio has it all arranged to capture Port Arthur within the next two days, after which she will intercept and destroy Russia's Baltic fleet. None of Tokio's other predictions having come true, the world may be excused if it takes this latest one with a grain of salt.

Georgia is noted for people with queer names. Striking among some that have lately come to notice are those of Peaceful Jenkins, and Misery Jenkins, his wife. And, very likely, it may be just the other way.

As a parting shot it may be well enough to remember that every walking delegate and labor-union blatherskite is out with his coat off today, working for the reelection of M. P. Snyder.

Tom Platt says that if Depew is defeated in New York for reflection to the United States Senate, "it is time to hang up the fiddle." And, while they are at it, they might also hang up the bow.

The price of copper being on the rise, Tom Lawson may possibly be able to recoup a little from the staggers he received in his "frenzied finance" experiences.

Roosevelt won out on the announcement that, if elected, he would give everybody a "square deal." Owen McAleer ought to win out today on the same announcement.

After all, this idea of carrying voters to the polls in carriages is doubtless a good one. Like the man who went to the funeral, a great many will go "just for the ride."

While those detectives are taking snap-shots during today's election excitement they might photograph Mr. Snyder in the act of making his last dodge.

In its account of a recent trial held in Georgia, the Atlanta Constitution says "a negro roasted the court." As a rule it is the negro who is roasted in that part of the country.

The illegal voter who attempts to cast a ballot today will require as much nerve to face those cameras as though they were Gatling guns.

If among the missing tonight the names of Tom Savage and Spook Howton should also appear, this town can let out a few bunzais with good grace.

What Los Angeles needs is a Mayor with a backbone, and the indications this morning are entirely favorable to that point of view.

His Wife Bossed the Job.

"A man who tells me how his wife wants me to cut his hair makes me tired," said the barber at the second chair, after the customer had departed. "I wish a man to tell me how he wants his hair cut, not his impressions of his wife's views."

"It can't be helped," replied the boss barber. "Once when I went to a house to cut a man's hair he called his wife into the room to tell me how to do it."—[New York Sun.

A DECLARATION FOR THE HOUR.

Owen McAleer, the Republican candidate for Mayor, has made the following clear-cut and emphatic declaration of his attitude on the question of industrial freedom, and it is republished today by The Times for the purpose of pointing out its significance:

For the benefit of those who may have forgotten the platform of the late Republican City Convention upon which I was nominated, I hereby reaffirm, restate and stand for the following plank:

"We reaffirm and indorse that plank in the Republican national platform which states that all combines of capital and labor are the results of the economic movement of the age, but neither must be permitted to infringe upon the rights and interests of the people. Such combinations, when lawfully formed for lawful purposes, are alike entitled to the protection of the laws, but both are subject to the laws and neither can be permitted to break them."

And when elected Mayor, I shall use all the powers at my command to see that this is carried out to its fullest extent, and that all classes shall get a "square deal" throughout my entire administration.

OWEN M'ALEER.

What does this mean?

It means that Mr. McAleer, if elected Mayor, will faithfully and forcefully carry out the whole spirit and letter of the above-quoted plank of the Republican platform, and of his straightforward, sound declaration.

It means that every independent and non-union workingman will be given protection and support in his efforts to work undisturbed at any lawful occupation of his choice for the purpose of earning a living, which every honest man is entitled to earn through his free labor.

It means that every union man will be accorded his full rights and privileges as an American citizen so long as he obeys the law of the land and upholds the fair-play spirit of true Americanism—and no longer.

It means that every employer of labor—every "captain of industry"—will be supported and protected in his inalienable right to conduct his business as to him seems best, so long as that business is lawful and is conducted in a lawful manner.

It means that if any individual or organization seeks to gain its ends unlawfully; if there is disturbance of the peace as the result of labor disputes; if there is any attempt at disorder, violence, property destruction or lawless industrial turmoil; if there is any attempt to abridge the rights and privileges of any free American citizen lawfully living and working in this city, Mr. McAleer, as Mayor, will bring to bear every power at his command to maintain the supremacy of the law, quell disorder, violence and destruction, restore and maintain industrial repose and guarantee and secure to every citizen his full rights and privileges under the law.

It means that Mr. McAleer recognizes the fact that the prosperity and remarkable progress of Los Angeles and Southern California are due in large measure to the prevalence of industrial repose and personal liberty, and that he will, if elected, do his full part, without fear or favor, to promote the future progress and prosperity of this community by maintaining industrial freedom, personal liberty, individual and corporate immunity from unwarranted and lawless interference, and to legitimately build up this great and growing city and southern part of the State.

It means that, if the need should arise, he will promptly call out every force at his command to protect the men whose capital is invested here, to protect the unorganized laborers who are working here, and to protect the organized workingmen in their rights, so long as each class named shall keep well within the bounds of the law.

And because it means these things Mr. McAleer should have the support at the polls today of every good citizen who is loyal to the best interests of the city and the State.

He is deserving of the vote of the employer whose welfare depends upon the maintenance of industrial peace, or, in event of industrial disturbances, upon the adequate and prompt protection of his rights and property. He is deserving of the vote of the non-union and the union laborer alike, for the interest of each lies in the guarantee to them of support and protection in their efforts to earn an honest living in any lawful occupation of their choice. He is deserving of the support of all good citizens, regardless of their party affiliations, who believe in a "square deal" and who wish to see Los Angeles continue to march forward along her prosperous and honorable path.

In short, a vote for McAleer is a vote for industrial freedom and repose, for personal liberty, for law and order, for good government and for a greater Los Angeles.

Believing this, The Times advises all citizens who seek the good ends here enumerated to vote for McAleer.

At the Churches Yesterday.

Tepid Christianity.

At the First Congregational Church Rev. William Horace Day preached on the "Jesus' Message to Laodicea." "There are," said he, "two ways of interpretation in the study of them. One interpretation is that they reveal seven ages of church history from the apostolic to the age of the Lord's coming. This is the favorite way of the crank and curious juggler of numbers to determine what Christ said even He did not know, the date or the millennium. If strictly followed it makes each of these letters useful to no other age than that for which it was written. The other method finds in these seven letters seven types of Christian life found in each period of history.

"These chapters in Revelations were written for all ages, Jesus' message to Laodicea had its vital appeal for a historic situation in the first century and copes to us with no less power. In each of these letters are seven parts with three exceptions—two of these early churches had nothing in their lives which Jesus must condemn and one of them had nothing to commend. Laodicea had nothing in its life of which Christ could make favorable mention. He at once proceeds to condemn the church without any tempering the thrust with words of praise.

"What is the sin for which this church is so singled out? Because thou art lukewarm and neither hot nor cold, I will spew thee out of my mouth.' Tepid Christianity is worse than anti-Christianity. 'I would thou wert cold or hot,' even deadly coldness, lifelessness, is better than this self-satisfied pride in religion. We should have expected this condemnation of Thyatira, that passionate, energetic seething church where the impure prophetess Jezebel was allowed to go on; but of this wealthy, flawless varnished Laodicean church, this is hard to understand. So faultless to look upon with our standards which consider only the bad things we do, not the talents we waste in buried idleness, as does Christ. I think that great note in Mr. Browning's philosophy that even misdirected effort is better than inertia must have come from this passage. You remember his idea in 'The Statue and the Bust,' in which he uses a wrong deed to tell a parable as did Jesus with the unjust judge.

"In this letter Jesus gives a five-fold cure for the Laodicean sin. Buy of me gold, refined in the fire. The treasure we lay up in heaven—the wealth of charity, not the money we accumulate but the money we give constitutes the true wealth. White garments, not the rich glossy black ones for which Laodicea was famous, but simple white ones of purity in heart and life. The garment of genuine character. Then he counsels them to buy eye salve, not the Phrygian powder made there and used as a cure for sore eyes but the healing of Jesus' touch that they may see their failure and see the spiritual world. 'That ye may see,' was Jesus great desire for them. 'Be zealous therefore and repent.' Would these smug Laodiceans show such bad taste as to get enthusiastic? the perfectly correct people with the wealth and elegance allow themselves to become dead in earnest and worse than all honestly confess themselves poor blind and naked?

"The sin of a people living a strong intellectual life is apt to be that of Laodicea. They are so afraid of being anything extreme, of course they would not be openly vicious as some in Thyatira, that is bad taste, no less is it impossible for such to be enthusiasts in seeking and saving men because that endangers the cultured poised and repression of manner which we admire How compassionate our Lord is with them and with us. The great pathos of the King of Kings standing at the door of your heart and mine and knocking. 'Behold, I stand at the door and knock.' If we let Him in in fellowship with Him the old false standards will perish and we shall be filled with glorious zeal for His kingdom."

Them That Love Him.

Rev. F. B. Cherington spoke in the Centennial Methodist Church in the morning from First Corinthians, II, 9: "Eye, hath not seen nor ear heard; neither have entered into the heart of any man the things which God hath prepared for them that love him." He said in part: "God, in His dealings with men, always designs better things for them than they appreciate. Under the Theocracy He was leading Israel to political development that would have given the world republican form of government centuries before it came if the nation had accepted His teachings. But they clamored to be 'like the nations round about them,' and demanded a King. They got their King, and sank to the level of the surrounding nations and lost the glory of leading the world to highest political freedom. The young man whom Jesus loved because of his rare qualities, might have had Paul's place perhaps among the Apostles, but he went away sorrowful, because to accept the place meant giving up his money. If James and John at one time could have had their wish they would have been mushroom dignitaries of a temporal and temporary kingdom instead of immortal associates in founding the everlasting kingdom of Christianity.

"The divine plan for man always transcends man's highest ambition. Botanists are drawn to the study of plants by the beauty of form and color. But very soon beauties and wonders of mechanism and life and mysteries of development so swallow up the admiration for form and color that a flower always wakens in their minds thoughts that go vastly deeper and higher they ever dreamed of when they first began their study of the science.

"So in the Christian life and service as progress is made, the first motives and incentives that impelled to entrance upon it are so far surpassed that one wonders at their seeming smallness as viewed from the levels through loving self-sacrifice. Contrast a miser's pleasure as he gloats over his hoardings with the feelings of Peter Cooper as he looked upon the hundreds of young men helped to nobler, broader life by his institute in New York; compare the experience of a hard self-centered life with that of a D. L. Moody or Gen. Booth or a Ness with a St. Paul, and you find an illustration of our text."

Dangerous Letters.

"Impulsive Letter Writing" was the theme of Rev. Frank Dewitt Talmage's discourse in the First Presbyterian Church last night, the sermon being the fifth of his series of "Twenty Warnings for Twenty Sins." The speaker sought to show the folly and danger of writing letters when the mind is influenced by anger or otherwise excited and disturbed so as to obscure the rational judgment. His text was Daniel vi:8: "Now, O King, establish the decree and sign the writing, that it be not changed." He said, in part:

"Never write an important letter until you have had plenty of time to think it over. Solomon would say that lawyer who would quickly give a decision upon any important matter. After hearing all the statements of his client, the wise lawyer says: 'Wait until tomorrow, or next week, and I will tell you what I believe you ought to do. I do not wish to answer you without consideration. I wish to think this matter over very carefully.' A prominent lawyer of the West once told me that when he was preparing a case for court, he spent one-half his time thinking of the arguments which his opponent might present, and then a great part of the other half planning how to refute them. And yet, the strange fact is that men and women often, in the moments of greatest mental excitement, will sit down and dash off a letter upon the most important of subjects; without giving the brain time to cool, or the ballast of judgment to settle down in the right equilibrium, they will hastily commit words to paper which will decide their whole earthly and perhaps their heavenly destiny.

"Never write an important letter which you would not be willing for the whole world to see. Many statements that are perfectly proper and rightly understood by those who know us, will not be rightly construed if placed before the eyes of the world at large. There are many thoughts that I might write to a friend, or a brother, which would be sinful if misinterpreted if read by an enemy, or a stranger. It is very important that one should never write a letter which would be capable of misconstruction, if that letter should ever fall into the hands of a bitter foe.

"Never write a letter with a vengeful pen, dipped into an inkwell filled with hatred. When one has been unjustly attacked, it is very easy for an injured man to say, 'I wish I could see that man. I wish I could give him a good piece of my mind. I wish I could tell him in plain, blunt language, what I think of him and his actions. As I cannot see him, I will just sit down and write him a letter.' Then he hastily sits down and writes a Demosthenian philippic, vituperations and denunciations, contemptuous excoriation, stinging ironies, bitter epigrams and whole verbal avalanches of invective are gathered together upon the letter sheet at the pen's touch.

"Never write a letter without realizing that in it you have the mightiest opportunities of testifying for Jesus Christ. We have all studied the far-reaching effect in a literary sense of letter writing. The private correspondence between individuals fill some of the brightest and the most interesting books of literature. The love letters of Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning. The tender words which were sent East and West across the Atlantic Ocean, when Thomas Carlyle, the mighty sage of English letters, and Ralph Waldo Emerson, the gentle sage of Concord, corresponded. The letters of Robert Louis Stevenson to his friends, scattered all over the world. The letters of Cicero, and of the younger Pliny. Letters of Julius Caesar, to the Emperor Constantine, and letters of Sidonius Apollinaris. These letters are the most fascinating because, like the mountain streams, they sparkle under the overhanging evergreens of the affections. They were murmuring for the most part into the ears of only one nightingale and moistening the throat of but one songster or songstress."

St. Mark's Lutheran.

St. Mark's Lutheran Church was organized yesterday at the corner of Thirty-eighth street and Budlong avenue, in the residence of the pastor, Rev. George R. Bird. The new church starts with a membership of between twenty and thirty, about half of them coming from the First English Lutheran.

The sermon was preached by Rev. Mr. Fredericks of Pasadena, and greetings were extended to the new organization by Rev. Herbert J. Weaver, pastor of the First Church.

Rev. Mr. Bird is an able preacher and a good worker among the masses, and is ably assisted by Mrs. Bird, who is a co-worker of equal ability with her husband. Services will be held each Sunday at 11 o'clock a.m., and a Sunday-school will be started early in January.

Astrology.

In Simpson Auditorium Rev. J. S. Thomson, pastor of the Independent Church of Christ, preached on "The Star in the Vision."

"The Magi studied the glorious Bible of the stars," said he. "The signs of the heavens were connected with the events of the earth, according to the wise. They saw a brilliant star one night, and they consulted their registers to find out what terrestrial events had accompanied its former appearance. A great king, say Melchizedek, was then born in the West; and they concluded that this King would be born in Jerusalem, and, if so, He must become King of the Jews, as they alone inhabited Palestine. The Magi were spiritual merchants, traveling from India to Egypt. They were rich and could make precious presents to the infant Christ.

"The Bible assures us that where there is no vision the nations fail. There can be no progress without dreamers and visions. Columbus, Watt, Stephenson, Fulton, Morse, Plato, Moore, Angelo, the great artists in all departments, the discoverers, inventors, were dreamers. They were called fools in their day; but now our grandest practical affairs, the affairs employing millions of men and thousands of women, are the results of the inventions and discoveries of dreamers—when the Babylonians, the Hebrews, the Greeks, the Carthaginians, and the Romans, refused to follow their prophets, the seers of the realities of life, they fell.

"The vision is worthless that has not a star in it to lead the soul to the new incarnations of truth, love and justice. Christ teaches that the heavens take a deep interest in human affairs. Angels with songs of heaven greeted and congratulated the inhabitants of earth upon the birth of Jesus Christ. His star of destiny shone splendidly before the eyes of the wise men; and they rested not till they had found the young child, and then they presented to him three gifts—love, faith and morality. Our stars must lead us to this Master alone, not to false Christs, and false prophets, and false teachers. Our visions must have the stars that will lead us to Him who is the King of men, because He bears witness to the truth which elevates, refines, fortifies, and transforms us into acceptable servants of God."

Larger Christianity.

At the New Jerusalem Church yesterday morning, Rev. J. E. Colliom discoursed on "The Larger Christianity," taking his text from Luke xxi, 27: "And then shall they see the Son of Man coming in a cloud with power and great glory." In part, he said:

"If the body of Christian truth recorded in the gospels be great, that to be introduced by the dispensation of the spirit of truth was certainly to be greater. Said Jesus: 'I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now. Howbeit, when He the spirit of truth is come He will guide you into all truth.' One reason why a larger Christianity was to be disclosed under the tuition of the spirit was, doubtless, that the new method of instruction would facilitate this result. It was not to be an oral method, but an intuitional one; not one depending on vocal sounds and symbols, but rather effected through mental illumination; not one depending upon external authority, but shining rather in the light of self-evidence because apprehended by the understanding; not one subject to the uncertainties of tradition, the caprice and inaccuracies of fallible translators, or the vicissitudes and mishaps of the publisher's art, but rather derived by a process of scientific induction and interpretation of the universal and unchanging fact of nature and of man.

"Jesus spoke in parables. He understood the secrets of nature. He used nature's language, for He understood the meaning of her words. He addressed the universal mind, and compassed the ages in His plans. When asked once what He meant by the term, 'Son of Man,' He replied, 'Light;' and then exhorted His hearers to live in harmony with it. A cloud is a metaphor of natural truth, of scientific knowledge. The coming of the Son of Man in a cloud may be understood to promise a new era of enlightenment by means of the scientific investigation and discovery of the laws of nature and of man.

"Our Lord promised that His coming as light in the cloud of science would follow a period of moral and intellectual obscurity. The scientific era, accordingly, dating from Lord Bacon in theseventeenth century, has gradually exposed and judged the superstitions of the dark ages, and promises ultimately to do away with all old things and make all things new."

Temple Baptist Church.

The attractive service brought out the usual large congregations in the Temple Auditorium. In the morning Pastor Burdette preached on "Prayer," taking for his text Luke ii, 1: "Lord, teach us to pray."

"That was a wonderful prayer," said he. "The spirit of prayer came upon them when they drew near to Jesus, and they asked for a gift far beyond their knowing. You can learn rhetoric and logic, and the subtleties and niceties of expression and debate and argument at college. You can learn Latin and Greek and Sanscrit and Hebrew at the university. You can learn how to measure the distances to the stars, and how to weigh them; you can learn the mysteries of electricity, the sciences of everything in the schools of science; you can learn to master the sweet melodies of the violin and the rich harmonies of the piano at the schools of music; I beg the musician's pardon—'conservatories;' you can learn nearly everything on earth at the schools and universities. If you have a good memory and strong arms, and a tremendous voice you can learn to recite at a school of physical and pulmonic elocution. If you have some sense to begin with, they can teach you how to preach at a theological seminary. But you must come to God, even as did these unlearned, miracle-working disciples, to learn to pray. Not 'how' to pray, but to 'pray.'

"These disciples knew how to do the little things that you and I sometimes wish we could do. They had learned the easy things. They knew how to work miracles. Already 'the twelve' had been sent out with power and authority' over all devils with commandment to 'heal the sick, raise the dead, cleanse the lepers, cast out devils.' They had gone out under that commission and 'throughout the villages preaching the gospel and healing everywhere.' Now, they wanted to learn to pray. That was and is the greatest thing in the ministry of the disciple. 'Lord, teach us to pray.' And Jesus taught them the model prayer, commonly called 'the Lord's Prayer.' Not His prayer to His Father. But our prayer to our Father. Our Lord's prayer you will find in the seventeenth chapter of John, and it is not a prayer for any one—man or angel—save the Son of God.

"'I wish I could pray,' says one, 'but I'm so wicked; I'm such a hardened sinner; I'm so bad that it would be wicked for me to pray.' Well, who do you suppose has a monopoly on prayer? Good people? Righteous people? Holy people? Man, did you ever hear a drunkard praying to be delivered from the awful clutch of the appetite that holds him, body, and mind, and soul, in the clutch of a living death? Did you ever hear of an abandoned woman praying to be saved from her life of shame and her doom of impending damnation? Did you ever read this prayer of a wretched adulterer—a treacherous liar—a shameless murderer—'Have mercy upon me, O God, according to thy loving kindness! Blot out my transgressions! Wash me from mine iniquity.' Is this wailing cry for mercy—mercy—mercy—is this the tender prayer of a loving, happy, holy man of God?"

GUTHRIE (O. T.) Dec. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch] An important question for the higher courts to solve has been raised here by Judge C. R. Buckner, relating to the sale of intoxicating liquors to the Ponce, Otoe, Missouri and Tokowa Indians, now living in Northern Oklahoma. In a case pending at Newkirk, in Kay county, the point will be raised that the appropriation bill passed by the last Congress had a rider giving the Indians full citizenship rights, under which they may purchase whisky if they so desire.

Exactly so. MONDAY, DECEMBER

SPOOKITES HAVE INNING.

'Spiritualistic Rejoinder to Rev. Dr. Talmage.

They Declare Preacher is in Bonds of Darkness.

Presbyterian Divine Has 'Em All Stirred Up.

Spiritualistic champions threw the words of Preacher Talmage back into his mouth yesterday morning. They said they weren't so at all, and held forth at considerable length on spiritualistic grandeur and alleged "ministerial ignorance" in a session at Burbank Hall, under the auspices of the "Truth Seekers." The meeting was held for formal answer of Rev. Talmage's vigorous challenge to mediums and spookery, issued from the pulpit of the First Presbyterian Church, November 27.

The kept spooks were not called into play to demonstrate their reality, their possessors contenting themselves with a calm discussion of spiritualism's merits. The talks were remarkably free from rant or suggestive personal allusions. There was a large audience present.

Mrs. Lilly was the chief speaker. In the course of her resumé of the Talmage discourse she said: "Men and women everywhere are seeking the true laws of life, and a higher development of their spiritual and intellectual faculties. Here comes young Mr. Talmage to judge all spiritualism by a few poor little charlatans and quacks that he has discovered on the outside of the ranks.

"Spiritualism may be likened to a great ship, sailing majestically onward through the seas of progress. Though there be barnacles on the ship's bottom, they are not a part of the ship. There are barnacles on the ship of spiritualistic discovery, but those barnacles will not prevent her from entering the haven of truth.

"I'd like to tell young Mr. Talmage that Presbyterianism has got barnacles of its own. How about the barnacle of infant damnation, that it sends hundred years of effort to remove? In addition, they have the incumbrance of adult damnation now, and they may be an equally long time in getting rid of that.

"I do not believe in personal attacks, but Rev. Talmage appears to me to be a man of good business energy, with a large desire to advertise himself. That's what you'd call his attack of last Sunday—a fine bid for large advertisement, in a sensational way, among the people of his own congregation, and the other residents of the city who read the newspapers.

"He says we seek darkness, in our demonstrations, rather than light. Nature seeks darkness, and spiritualism is in part an endeavor to become one in harmony with nature. Tell the photographer who operates in a dark room, and finishes your picture without any light, that he is a fraud, a thief and a liar, and that you will not pay for your setting. There are spiritual processes best carried on in absolute darkness, some in semi-darkness, and others in perfect light. Talmage should not shun the darkness or hate it—in the combination of light and darkness is perfect life. Why, he himself was carried in a dark cabinet of nature's own providing nine months before his birth."

There were no sensations in the evening, which concluded with a short musical demonstration, of the ordinary sort.

Another anti-Talmage session was held last night in the same hall.

MORMON CONFERENCE.

Semi-annual Session for Southern California Convened Yesterday—Meeting Today.

The semi-annual session of the Southern California Mormon Conference convened yesterday morning at 10:30 in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints on West Tenth street. The services attracted a congregation that filled the building.

President Joseph E. Robinson, who has supervision of the conference of Southern California, San Francisco, Portland and Arizona, is in charge of the present session, and G. F. Fowler is the president of the local conference. There are fifteen elders in attendance.

The session opened by an address by the president on the general outlook. Elder A. R. Weston of this city gave an address on "The Restoration of the Gospel and Divine Revelation;" Elder S. E. Brimhall of San Bernardino spoke on "Faith and Repentance;" Elder C. M. Egan of Los Angeles had for his theme "Baptism of Water and of the Spirit;" and Elder C. F. Burton of San Diego spoke on "Salvation for the Dead."

During the services Miss Minnie Gallagher sang a solo and the quartette composed of A. R. Weston, C. W. Hill, Miss Alpha Lund and Miss Lizzie Anderson, rendered several selections.

Yesterday afternoon Elder J. George Barnes of San Bernardino was the first speaker, his topic being "Church Organization and its Divine Authority." President Robinson gave an address on the condition of the church and presented the names of the authorities of the church to be voted upon by the conference for adoption or rejection. They were unanimously accepted. Elder C. W. Hill spoke on "The Mormon Doctrine of the Trinity," and Elder G. W. Fowler spoke on "The Book of Mormon."

Last evening the congregation was addressed by President Robinson.

This morning at 10 o'clock the priesthood meeting will convene, and their business will occupy most of the day. At 2 o'clock conclusion the president will announce the assignment for elders during the ensuing half-year.

Elder Fowler, president of the Southern California Conference, stated yesterday that there had been but little increase in membership of the Mormon church through conversions from other faiths, although an active house-to-house canvass had been carried on. "Our elders are giving most of their time to the care of those already in the fold," said Elder Fowler, "and in looking after the newcomers of our faith from other points. I estimate that there are probably 400 persons in this city and vicinity, and have churches established at San Bernardino and San Diego."

Three new elders will be placed in the field by the president at today's session of the priesthood. They come from San Francisco.

SPOOKITES HAVE INNING.

Spiritualistic Rejoinder to Rev. Dr. Talmage.

They Declare Preacher is in Bonds of Darkness.

Presbyterian Divine Has 'Em All Stirred Up.

Spiritualistic champions threw the words of Preacher Talmage back into his mouth yesterday morning. They said they weren't so at all, and held forth at considerable length on spiritualistic grandeur and alleged "mine-terial ignorance" in a session at Burbank Hall, under the auspices of the "Truth Seekers." The meeting was held for formal answer of Rev. Talmage's vigorous challenge to mediums and spookery, issued from the pulpit of the First Presbyterian Church, November 27.

The kept spooks were not called into play to demonstrate their reality, their possessors contenting themselves with a calm discussion of spiritualism's merits. The talks were remarkably free from rant or suggestive personal allusions. There was a large audience present.

Mrs. Lilly was the chief speaker. In the course of her resumé of the Talmage discourse she said: "Men and women everywhere are seeking the new laws of life, and a higher development of their spiritual and intellectual faculties. Here comes young Dr. Talmage to judge all spiritualism by a few poor little charlatans and cranks that he has discovered on the skirts of the ranks.

"Spiritualism may be likened to a great ship, sailing majestically onward through the seas of progress. Though there be barnacles on the ship's bottom they are not a part of the ship. There are barnacles on the ship of materialistic discovery, but those barnacles will not prevent her from entering the haven of Truth.

"I'd like to tell young Mr. Talmage that Presbyterianism has got barnacles of its own. How about the barnacles of infant damnation, that it took a hundred years of effort to remove? In addition, they have the insurance of adult damnation now, and they may be an equally long time in getting rid of that.

"I do not believe in personal attacks, but Rev. Talmage appears to me to be a man of good business energy, with a large desire to advertise himself. That's what you'd call his stunt of last Sunday—a fine bid for free advertisement, in a sensational way among the people of his own congregation, and the other residents of the city who read the newspapers.

"They say we seek darkness, in our demonstrations, rather than light. Nature seeks darkness, and spiritualism is in part an endeavor to become one in harmony with nature. Tell the photographer who operates in a dark room, and finishes your picture without any light, that he is a fraud, a fool and a liar, and that you will not pay for your setting. There are spiritual pictures best carried on in absolute darkness, some in semi-darkness, and others in perfect light. Talmage should not shun the darkness because it is in the combination of light and darkness is perfect life. Why, he himself was carried in a dark cabinet of nature's own providing nine months before his birth."

There were no sensations in the meeting, which concluded with a short musical demonstration, of the ordinary sort.

The anti-Talmage session was held last night in the same hall.

MORMON CONFERENCE.

Semi-Annual Session for Southern California Convened Yesterday—Meeting Today.

The semi-annual session of the Southern California Mormon Conference convened yesterday morning at 10 o'clock in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints on West Tenth street. The services attracted a congregation that filled the building.

President Joseph E. Robinson, who has supervision of the conference of Southern California, San Francisco, Nevada and Arizona, is in charge of the present session, and G. E. Fowler is president of the local conference. There are fifteen elders in attendance.

The session opened by an address by the president on the general outlook. Elder A. R. Weston of this city made an address on "The Restoration of the Gospel and Divine Revelation;" Elder E. Brimhall of San Bernardino spoke on "Faith and Repentance;" Elder C. M. Egan of Los Angeles had for his theme "Baptism of Water and of the Spirit;" and Elder C. F. Burton of San Diego spoke on "Salvation for the Dead."

During the services Miss Minnie Slaugher sang a solo and the quartet composed of A. R. Weston, C. W. Hill, Miss Alpha Lund and Miss Lizzie Anderson, rendered several selections.

Yesterday afternoon Elder J. George Brown of San Bernardino was the principal speaker, his topic being "Church Organization and its Divine Authority." President Robinson gave an address on the condition of the church and presented the names of the officers of the church to be voted upon by the conference for adoption or rejection. They were unanimously adopted. Elder C. W. Hill spoke on "The Mormon Doctrine of the Trinity," and Elder G. W. Fowler spoke on "The Book of Mormon."

In the evening the congregation was addressed by President Robinson. This morning at 10 o'clock the priesthood meeting will convene, and their session will occupy most of the day. In the conclusion the president will announce the assignment for elders during the ensuing half-year.

G. E. Fowler, president of the Southern California Conference, stated yesterday that there had been but little increase in membership of the Mormon church through conversions from other faiths, although an active missionary-house canvass had been carried on. "Our elders are giving most of their time to the care of those already in the fold," said Elder Fowler, "and in looking after the newly-made converts of our faith from other points. We find that there are probably 400 Mormons in this city and vicinity, and three churches established at San Pedro and San Diego." Two new elders will be placed in charge by the president at today's session of the priesthood. They come from San Francisco.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

[The Times freely publishes the views of correspondents without holding itself responsible for writers' opinions. Be brief, write plainly, state clearly. The space of 250 words, on the average, is sufficient for the expression of an idea.]

Not from Children's Home.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4, 1904.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Noticing in the issue of this morning a correspondence from Redlands to the effect that a certain Mrs. Rooney-Shaw had taken a baby from here and deposited it on the doorstep of some party there, and later had stated that it was obtained from the "Rice Home" and would be returned, etc.

I write to say that there is no "Rice Home" that I know of, and that the child was not obtained from or through the Children's Home Society which I have the honor to represent. Mrs. Rooney-Shaw did not get it from us, nor did we have anything to do with its being taken to Redlands. Since it was brought back to the city we have taken it in charge, and it will not again be deposited on anybody's doorstep, nor left in irresponsible hands, nor sent adrift in any uncertain way. We are set to prevent such outrages being perpetrated on helpless infants.

Respectfully yours,
O. V. RICE, Supt. C. H. S.

Coulter Dry Goods Co.

If you don't buy here we both lose money.

Monday, December 5—Only twenty days 'till Christmas—are you as far along with your gifts as you were this time last year? We are FARTHER ahead.

$1.25 to $2 Silks 85c

What a chance for Gift-gatherers!

Never mind how it can be done—it's enough to know that the Coulter store promises you a wide range of plain and fancy silks today and Tuesday at a little more than half their average values. Among them are:

Bengal silk crepe in lavender.
Light blue Louisines.
Light blue satin Duchesse.
Light blue Armure—Chameleon.
Fancy brocades in light shades.
Basket weaves in shell pink.
French faille in sea green.
Natta weaves in corn color.
Novelty figured Louisine in white-and-helio combination.

Many of them especially adapted for evening waists and gowns, you notice.

But of more general interest, perhaps, will be the line of 19 to 24-inch Louisines and Taffetas in neat designs for waists and suits—excellent $1.25 to $2 values—85c.

Another Silk Bargain A lot of extreme novelties for waists and suits—checks, figures and embroidered dots on changeable grounds—chiefly in the popular blue-and-green combinations. Exclusive patterns and well worth $1.25—buyable now at $1.00.

Trimmings and Laces ..... At Half

Short lengths of fine dress trimmings and trimming laces at exactly half regular retail prices.

Now, by short lengths we don't mean they are USELESSLY short—majority of them are of the same lengths we're daily cutting from full pieces—¼ to 1½ yards—and as there are several pieces of the same pattern, there is little doubt about finding the desired amount in the sorts you like best.

We can promise you a tremendous variety too, for we took all the drummers' sample lines from a big New York importing house.

The line of trimmings includes

Braids, Guimps, Passamenteries, yardage goods and ornaments in black and white, as well as colors.

Among the laces are—

Macrame, Medallion, Crochet, Battenberg, Applique, Chantilly, Medallions and edges, in white, ecru, cream and Egyptian—and some in tinsel combination. Many of them designed especially for trimming opera coats; others for collars and fancy work.

Choose at just half what we get for the same sorts when cut from full pieces.

Smart Suitings at Half

Here's good fortune for wanters of extremely smart suits—two lots of Scotch and English Novelty suitings that we picked up under price are to be sold at half their average worth.

The genuine imported stuffs in exceptionally handsome mixtures, invisible stripes and overplaids—the materials are not only uncommonly rich but the patterns are exclusive—sure to appeal to women who want something out of the ordinary.

Divided into two lots—the $1.50 to $2.25 values at $1 a yd. The $2.50, $3 and $3.50 values at $1.50 a yd.

54 to 60 inches wide.

A Week of Waistings

Many Gift-worthy Sorts at Half or Less

Even at REGULAR prices, waist materials are always in high favor with gift-gatherers who believe in giving something USEFUL. But now, with several of the most popular sorts at half actual worth, you'll keep our whole force of wash goods salesmen busy cutting waist patterns.

Mercerized Cottons at Half and Less Dozens of rarely handsome patterns in highly mercerized cotton oxfords—some all white, some white with black figures, some white and dainty colored figures—immensely popular for shirt waist suits as well as waistings—50c a yd. for the $1 and $1.50 grades, 35c for the 75c and 85c sorts. We bought under price—that's how.

Mercerized Wools and French Flannels 75c Delightfully soft and warm all-wool French flannels in every correct shade, with dots or small neat figures embroidered in silk.

Novelty cotton and wool mixtures in pretty brocade effects, highly mercerized—bright, lustrous fabrics that will make durable as well as dressy waists.

Danish Cloth 25c Warmth without weight—that makes these inexpensive half-wool stuffs extremely popular for entire gowns as well as waists. 36-inch widths 25c a yard.

Scotch Flannels 35c Solid colors or fancy woven stripes and small figures on beautifully colored grounds—and their beauty won't be lost in the laundry, as they will neither fade nor shrink; 35c a yard.

$15 Sets of Undermuslins $10

Undermuslin daintiness at a third under actual value—$15 sets of 6 pieces, French nainsook, beautifully made and exquisitely trimmed with Val lace edging and insertion, in the new block patterns, for ten dollars.

Not overstating the valuations a particle—you'll admit THAT the moment you see the garments.

And they are fresh, crisp, perfect—even if the price-concession does look surprisingly strong.

We paid nowhere near regular price—that's the reason.

A descriptive word of each garment:

DRAWERS—Full umbrella style, with deep lawn flounce formed of tucks, two rows of Val. insertion and one row of edging.

CHEMISE—Long skirt style, with round yoke of Val. lace insertion, beading and ribbon; skirt finished with deep tucked flounce and Val. edging.

SHORT SKIRT—With deep lawn flounce, three clusters of tucks, two rows of Val. insertion and one of edging.

CORSET COVER—Full, French style, low round neck, front and neck trimmed with Val. insertion, beading and ribbon; gathered at waist, back of eight fine tucks.

LONG SKIRT—Of fine French cambric, flounce from knees down having five rows of Val. insertion alternating with clusters of silk tucks; finished with Val. edging.

GOWN—Of nainsook; round low neck, deep yoke of Val. insertion, edging and ribbon, front of Val. lace with embroidered medallion design in center; lace at sleeves.

These sets, at $10, are exceptional values, even for COULTER'S.

And they couldn't have come at a more opportune time for many who are looking for gifts that will prove useful.

We've six or eight other styles of sets at radically reduced prices—

$5.25 sets at $4 $13.50 sets at $10
$9 sets at $6.50 $15 sets at $12
$22.50 sets at $15

Outing Flannel Gowns Reduced

Going to sell $1.25 and $1.50 gowns today and Tuesday at a dollar. Plain or fancy outing flannels in the popular Mother Hubbard style, cut generously full and long; some trimmed with embroidery; others with braid.

MORE LIGHT ON M'CUSKERS.

New Facts Point to Planned Disappearance.

Broker Even Sold Off His Cottage Furniture.

Nurse and He Squared Up Their Account.

At a late hour last night Maj. J. W. A. Off, cashier of the State Bank and Trust Company, made the following statement for The Times:

"On Friday before last Mr. McCusker drew out his account from our bank. At that time he had to his credit a balance of a little more than $20.

"A few days ago a lady applied to the bank for information concerning Mr. McCusker's financial standing. She showed that July 1 of this year he had borrowed from her $2500, no portion of which had been repaid."

Details which were ferreted out yesterday in connection with the disappearance last Tuesday afternoon of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Albert McCusker strengthen the theory that the sea which gave up the body of the wife on Friday morning, does not hold the corpse of the husband, but that McCusker, the broker, is somewhere in the land of the living, probably in hiding.

Yesterday's developments in the investigation into this strange and tragic story tend to firmly establish one thing at least: that when, at 4:20 o'clock on the afternoon of last Tuesday Mrs. McCusker took his half-insane wife from their cottage on Front street, Santa Monica, ostensibly for a ride to Playa del Rey, his mind was made up that they would not return. Whether he had determined to not let his wife carry out her oft-expressed desire to commit suicide, and himself meant to follow her into eternity, or whether a dark crime lies at the bottom of this double disappearance, or whether the woman suddenly, even before the husband could prevent it, leaped into the ocean from one of the several South Side piers, dragging him with her—these are questions for surmise rather than statement. But of one probability seems the theory that McCusker himself deliberately sought death in a watery grave.

MCUSKER AS BROKER.

D. A. McCusker is the man whose sudden disappearance from Los Angeles was less than a year ago, a few days before the announcement of the failure of the book-making firm of E. J. Arnold & Co. of St. Louis, caused a great panic in this city among a circle of people of small means who had been placing pool-room bets with McCusker. The latter had offices in the Wilcox building, as at the time of his second disappearance, and these were besieged for days by groups of "investors," many of whom had lost their all through the failure of Arnold & Co., the notorious race track swindlers, and private advices of their impending failure (a report finally reached McCusker a few days before becoming known to the public) fled, leaving a clerk or two to answer with blank looks the clamorous questionings of several hundred.

It is charged at the time, and contended, that McCusker knew of the Company's methods of doing business, and therefore was afraid to show his face, the victims of the failure when the smash came. He was eventually located in St. Louis, but never subjected to prosecution.

The unhappy feature of McCusker's failure and disappearance was the fate of his wife, who had married him many months before. She knew where he had gone, but would not divulge his whereabouts for fear of consequences to him that might follow. She mourned by day and wept by night, refusing to be comforted. It was plain, because in the midst of his brokerage business he had invested and lost the bulk of her small fortune, (said to have amounted to more than $30,000,) but because of the misfortune his operations had brought upon poor people and the disaster that she felt had been heaped upon his name and hers. She had refused to fly with him to St. Louis.

Mrs. McCusker's mental distress, so great the nervous strain under which she labored, that finally melancholia set in, later to develop into violent insanity, necessitating her confinement in the State asylum at Patton, and later in Dr. Kellogg's private sanitarium at Sierra Madre.

STRAWS THAT POINT.

There are some pertinent facts learned in the course of yesterday's investigations at Santa Monica.

On Monday, the day before the disappearance, McCusker issued order to the Los Angeles postoffice, ordering the delivery of his mail from box 256 Wilcox building, to be held for delivery, to be called for by him.

Tuesday morning, before leaving his home at Santa Monica (the cottage No. 1 Front street, rented furnished by him) he instructed Miss Elizabeth Tate, nurse in charge of his wife, who acted for months as general housekeeper for himself and wife, to be sure and collect certain of the furnishings belonging to him—a pair of portieres, some blankets and bedding, two or three rocking chairs and an alarm clock. "We are going to move back to Los Angeles about the 14th," he explained, "and it's hardly worth while to pack these things up and taking them along. I'm going to rent a furnished house, you see."

Tuesday noon Miss Tate had W. J. Hull, a furniture dealer in Santa Monica, come to the Front-street cottage, look over the goods, and offer a price for them. Mr. Hull did so, and offered $115. Mrs. McCusker was present at the time, and discussed the matter with the dealer in Mr. Hull's presence.

Wednesday morning Miss Tate and Mrs. McCusker went to Mr. Hull's store. Miss Tate stated that the price offered would be satisfactory. The same day the goods were brought away and Mr. Hull's order. Wednesday morning a bill was sent to the McCusker home for the $15 and a bill of sale was signed. Miss Tate received the money and took the bill of sale, said Mr. McCusker was not then at home, but she would have him sign it as soon as possible. Thursday morning the bill was called for the paper, but found Miss Tate closed to the front door saying, "Call back soon."

STILL MORE STRAWS.

McCusker was not in the habit of coming home from Los Angeles until late. On Tuesday—the Tuesday of the disappearance—he came home at 1:30 and 2 o'clock in the afternoon, but offered no explanation for his early arrival.

At 3 o'clock that afternoon, as Miss Tate and Mrs. McCusker were about to start for the grocery store of A. F. Johnson, six blocks away, to make a purchase, McCusker said to Miss Tate: "Well, Miss Tate, I think I will give you some money today." The nurse responded that she was not in need of any, and laughingly remarked that it was better for her not to have it, for then she could not spend it. McCusker was in her debt to the amount of $323—$117 that she had given him to take care of for her, the balance representing unpaid salary at the rate of $15 and (later) $10 a week. This was plus $50 unpaid wages which, at his solicitation, she had given him authority to invest for her in some manner which she does not now recall, but on which she was to receive monthly dividends of $2, and which subsequently he told her had turned out bad and been lost.

A few minutes after 4 o'clock the women having returned to the house, McCusker handed Miss Tate $134 in currency—four silver dollars, $1 in dimes and postage stamps, and two envelopes. "In this," he said, designating one of the envelopes, "is a bill of sale I have made out to you for our trunks and some things. I want you to have 'Sis's' (meaning Mrs. McCusker) diamond earrings, her gold watch and rings." He then proposed to Miss Tate that these things, together with the $139 in money and stamps, would "square them up." The nurse replied that the arrangement was satisfactory to her. It does not appear that in all this transaction McCusker offered any reason for thus "squaring up" at this time; the account between himself and Miss Tate had been running since the 17th of the previous July.

At 4:20 o'clock Miss Tate having helped Mrs. McCusker to change her dress and don her sealskin jacket—against the husband's advice, who said he saw no reason for the changing, but was quite willing to humor the partially insane woman—Mr. and Mrs. McCusker left the cottage. He had proposed that they take a car ride to Playa del Rey.

They waited some little time for a south-bound car, and—there being no statement to the contrary—boarded it when it came.

No one has been found who tells of having seen them, or either of them, after that.

THE NURSE WAITS.

Criticism has been directed against the nurse for not making known the disappearance of the McCuskers until Friday morning. Here is what she said to a Times reporter yesterday afternoon in explanation:

"I got supper soon after Mr. and Mrs. McCusker left the house, for I expected them to be back not later than 5 or 5:30 o'clock. They did not come, so I kept the supper waiting until 10 o'clock that night. Then I decided that he must have taken her for a trip to Los Angeles. I sat in a rocking chair by the front window, watching every passing car until the last one went by at 2 o'clock Wednesday morning. I dozed in the chair with a pillow under my feet until daylight.

"All Wednesday morning I sat on the front porch, waiting for a car to stop at the corner and them to step off. It never occurred to me that anything had happened to them or to either of them.

"When Thursday came and there was no word, I grew desperate. I said to myself that perhaps they had gone East to visit Mrs. McCusker's relatives, but anyway it was time for me to open my mouth to somebody. I was a stranger, I knew nobody. I have only been in Los Angeles four times since coming to California. That morning I sat down and wrote a letter to Mr. A. R. Jones, a friend of the McCuskers, whom I knew, asking him or his wife to come down and see me or direct me how to find them in the city. I went to the postoffice and mailed it that morning, leaving a note pinned on the front door.

"Thursday afternoon I was very nervous. I got on a car and went to Los Angeles to the office of Dr. Pepper on Spring street, near Second. I waited there from 12 o'clock until after 4, but he did not come. Then I told his son to tell him when he came that Mr. and Mrs. McCusker had disappeared on Tuesday, and I had not heard of them since, and I came on back to Santa Monica.

"The next morning I met L. J. Robinson on the street, here in Santa Monica, and told him my trouble. I had known him and Mrs. Robinson when we were all nurses in Dr. Harpster's sanatorium at Sierra Madre. We went together to the City Marshal of Santa Monica and reported the case. Later that morning we heard that Mrs. McCusker's body had been washed ashore near Playa del Rey.

"I am satisfied that Mr. McCusker is at the bottom of the ocean, and that his body will come on the beach in a few days."

A bank book of McCusker's found in the Santa Monica cottage shows that on November 16 he had a balance in the State Bank and Trust Company of $667.25, and that he deposited $20 on the following day and $25 the next.

The second envelope spoken of as having been handed to Miss Tate by McCusker Tuesday afternoon, contained a detailed statement of his account with her, showing him her debtor in the amount of $184 and some cents, after the payment of the $139. The bill of sale was to offset the $184.

An unanswered question is: What became of Mrs. McCusker's sealskin jacket? It was not on her body that washed ashore.

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

Ellery Arrives.

The vanguard of the Ellery Band arrived in town yesterday in the shape of Mr. Ellery himself, who left his large musical family in El Paso to come ahead and remind the thousands of friends of the land, that it will "soon be home again." Mr. Ellery is enthusiastic about his new leader Perullo and declares emphatically that his control over his men is extraordinary and the effects he obtains are in the highest degree artistic.

"I do not want to make exaggerated promises," said the manager, "but I am certain that the enthusiasm over my band will be greater this season than it was during our previous visit. All we desire now is adequate support from the public to justify our having crossed the continent to return to Los Angeles, and we will guarantee to give the most interesting course of musical entertainments they ever listened to. Our opening concerts will be given at Temple Auditorium, formerly Hazzard's Pavilion, on Friday and Saturday nights of this week with a special matinée on the second day. Then we expect to rest a week or so and afterward make a tour of the entire southern part of the State."

UNIQUE WAY TO CELEBRATE.

Other People Get the Pastor's Birthday Present.

The Double Anniversary of Immanuel Leader.

A Striking Illustration of Practical Christianity.

Rev. Dr. Hugh K. Walker, the highly-esteemed pastor of Immanuel Presbyterian Church, yesterday with the aid of his loyal membership, celebrated the seventh anniversary of his pastorate and the forty-third anniversary of his birth.

Both parties to the celebration did their parts well. Dr. Walker preached a warm, gospel sermon at the morning service and asked the congregation to preach the anniversary sermon. They did it in a way that showed the stronghold the pastor has upon their affections.

Highland Park Presbyterians wanted $3000 to help them in the erection of a new church near Occidental College and Dr. Walker told them they should have it. He advised his people that there could be no more practical way for them to celebrate his anniversary, and in a quarter of an hour he had the pleasure of turning over to his Highland Park brethren more than $3200.

LATEST PHOTOGRAPH OF REV. DR. HUGH K. WALKER.
[By Mojonier.]

That was an illustration of practical Christianity as well as a mark of confidence in a lovable leader.

In the seven years of Dr. Walker's leadership Immanuel Church has given to Occidental almost $60,000, and yesterday's gift was in addition to this princely sum.

In the evening Dr. Walker preached his anniversary sermon from a text that at first reading does not indicate any great degree of swiftness, but when elucidated indicated great things accomplished. It was from Job ix:25: "Now my days are swifter than a post."

He explained that the simile in the text referred to a post rider, which in the olden time was the manner of swiftly carrying messages from one section to another, just as it was in after ages in America.

The title of his discourse was: "Seven Swift-footed Years." "Here in Los Angeles," he said, "my days during these seven swift-footed years have indeed been swifter than the swiftest post."

Dr. Walker told how the seasons and the years flew by under our glorious sunlit skies, which were to him a constant delight. He said:

"I have heard some people complain that the lack of difference between the seasons became monotonous. They have gone East again on account of the monotony and have come back singing, 'Blessed be monotony.'"

He stated a remarkable fact in connection with the official corps of Immanuel Church. The Board of Elders, deacons and trustees, have been the same as organized under the leadership of his predecessor, Dr. W. J. Chichester, and during the seven years there was never a break until by the recent death of John Shirley Ward.

The membership of the church has increased to 1926, a net gain of more than 700, though 1371 persons have been received during that period. The contributions have amounted to more than a quarter of a million dollars, much more than half of the sum having been for benevolences.

Dr. Walker reviewed not only the progress of his own denomination in the city but all others, and in keeping with his well-known brotherly nature, devoted much more time and more terms of laudation to other denominations than to the Presbyterians. As a sample, he thus spoke of the Methodists:

"I know of no denomination in the city that has done such a wonderful work or that is so great a power for good as the Methodist Episcopal Church, loyally supported by the M. E. Church, South. One of the most gifted young men in this part of the world is the gifted pastor, Rev. E. P. Ryland, who has charge of Trinity M. E. Church, South, and who is doing a splendid work for the Lord."

He mentioned in the heartiest words of praise many churches and ministers.

"I know of no city in this country," he said, "where the Christian people are so united as in Los Angeles. Every protestant church in the city stands committed to a great forward movement, and in a few weeks a great revival will be in progress from many different centers. This includes the Protestant Episcopal churches, and I look for a work of the same kind to be done under some devoted leader in the Catholic Church."

He predicted that great things will come to pass in Los Angeles within a few months, among which is the banishment of the saloon. Los Angeles, he said, is to become the great Christian center of the Coast, which is indicated from the fact that every Christian organization in the great city of San Francisco has lost ground within the past three years.

"Call me a pessimist, a crank or what you will, but I have a forecast to make," he declared. "The time is coming and will come quickly, when the excitement will be greater in this city than when the Seventh Regiment marched away for the Philippines."

He also predicted the early division of his own church, saying that it was an absolute necessity, much as he regretted to think of it in one light. He directed attention to the fact that if every member of Immanuel Church would take a sudden notion to attend services at the same time there would not be room for them, to say nothing of the strangers and others who might wish to come. In addition, he anticipates a great influx of new members in the near future and said he felt that even now Immanuel Church has passed the crest in its membership.

Tonight a reception will be given in the church parlors in honor of Dr. Walker.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4.—Los Angeles had the situation well in hand today up to the seventh inning when Tacoma made three two-base hits in succession after two men had been retired, and five of Fisher's men scored enough runs to give them the game. Joe Corbett pitched for Tacoma. Score:

U. S. C. TURNS TO HAND BALL

COACH HOLMES WILL DEVELOP THE INDOOR SPORT.

Football Players Take Very Kindly to It and Put up Some Good Games. Fair Prospect for Track Athletics the Coming Season—Four Team Meet May be Arranged.

During the interval between the close of the football season and the opening of the track season for active practice, Coach Harvey Holmes of the University of Southern California is keeping his squad busy with strenuous exercise on the handball court. Series of games are being arranged, and if the present interest continues, there will doubtless be an effort to include the game in the list of intercollegiate sports.

During the past week, a tournament, entered into with zest by the members of the school, has been in progress. Members of the football team have made good in almost every case, they being in almost perfect form as a result of the season's training. George Runyan, Walter Lennox, Charles Broderson and Charles Parsons were among those who qualified for the finals.

Coach Holmes, though the instructor, has taken active part in the tournament, and on Saturday morning the two men who have made the highest average, Messrs. Lennox and Broderson, challenged the coach for a game. Quite a crowd witnessed the exhibition of skill, and the ball was kept hot as it bounced forth and back under the manipulation of the players, whose every muscle was exerted to keep the rubber sphere in play.

The first game resulted in a score of 16 to 21 in favor of Lennox and Broderson. The second went to Holmes by a score of 21 to 5. The third game, which was hard fought throughout, was won by the football coach by the close score of 21 to 20, making Holmes the winner of the series.

According to the present outlook, the University will put out a strong track team. Sprinting material is not wanting, and there is said to be no dearth of material for the field events. After the Christmas holidays the men will go into active training, and in the height of the season a training table will be maintained.

Within the football field, a track has already been leveled and the men will be trotted around the oval daily. For the distance runners the gates, which have been hung at either side of the football fence, will be opened, and a track, an even quarter of a mile in length will be provided.

Escondido Claims Championship.

The members of the Escondido High School nine are displeased because the Russ High School team of San Diego is claiming the baseball championship of that county. Russ has defeated El Cajon and the Y.M.C.A. teams, but the Escondido boys say they decisively defeated Russ by the score of 10 to 6. Russ challenged Escondido to play two games, was defeated in the first, and since that time has declined to play the other game. Few teams are available for the Escondido boys, and they have had but the one interhigh school game. Escondido claims the San Diego county baseball championship, and is willing and ready to defend it, according to a letter sent The Times by W. H. Baldridge.

PUBLIC PICKS ARE WINNING.

SPORTS HAVE BEATEN RACES A LITTLE SO FAR.

Over Fifty Per Cent. of Favorites Have Landed First During the Past Week and Only Four Outsiders Won in Thirty-six Events—Dope on the Best Jockeys.

The racing at Ascot Park during the past nine days has demonstrated at least one thing to close observers of the game, and that is that the bettors on the whole have won money. This may not seem apparent to some of the small pikers that have lost some or all of their coin, but a little calculation will prove that it is true.

During the past week in the thirty-six races nineteen favorites won, which is a fraction over 50 per cent. This not only speaks well for the judgment of the sporting class as a whole, but it tends to show the winning luck of the public so far, for almost without exception the wise money and all good-sized bets have been on the favorites and this at straight and place. Only four real long shots won during the thirty-six races, and but thirteen medium-priced horses at from 4 to 7 to 1. At least 75 per cent. of the favorites have been better than even money and eleven favorites ran second during the week.

MANY FAVORITES WIN.

Just how the favorites, mediums and outsiders fared the past week is shown by the following table of winners in the thirty-six races:

	Favorites.	Mediums.	Outsiders.

Tuesday	3	2	1
Wednesday	2	3	1
Thursday	3	3	0
Friday	4	2	0
Saturday	4	1	0

HOW JOCKEYS RIDE.

Concerning the work of the jockeys, results prove the well-known fact that Hildebrand is far and away the best rider at the track, as he was on the Coast last year and in the East this summer. He has a very close competitor in Walsh and it might be stated that Walsh's work is very near as good as Hildebrand's. It practically is in percentage of wins yet. Walsh had three times as many horses outside the money the past week as had Hildebrand. Walsh, however, is in many cases just as good as Hildy, and if he always had the good horses that Hildebrand rides, he might make just as good a showing. It is said that Hildebrand will not ride a poor horse, and naturally has the best of every other rider in any race.

A comparison of the work of the jockeys does not often show what some of them can really do, for many good jockeys get a chance to ride but seldom. Just what those have done who have come into the limelight the past week is shown as follows:

	Mounts.	1.	2.	3.	Out
Hildebrand	38	11	6	5	2
Walsh	33	8	6	3	6
Smith	15	4	2	1	8

Manager J. W. Brooks has returned from San Francisco with the news that the best horses now at the Oakland track have been entered in the Ascot stake races that closed last Thursday. Some of the good ones are Arcade, Bombadier, Horatius, Claude and Elliott.

There are now about fifteen jumping horses at Ascot, and it is the intention to have a hurdle race on next Friday.

JOCK OTIS ARRIVES.

WILL BE A FREE LANCE.

Frank Otis, the well-known jockey who has ridden on every race track in the country, has arrived here from Kansas City and New Orleans, and will ride at Ascot as a free lance. Frank has been doing very well in the East this year, but prefers our mild climate and pleasant weather to the snows and ice of the East.

He says the game at New Orleans is going to the bad, and he believes that the big majority of the stables will go from there to Hot Springs when that track opens January 5. There is no very particular reason except that the sport promises better returns at the Springs than in New Orleans, although the purses in the South are $400. Otis says there will be three cars of horses here from New Orleans this week and that a few of the jocks will come on from there. He looks as if he had been taking good care of himself, and says he can easily ride at 105 pounds. Charles F. Stafford of the Thoroughbred Record of Lexington, Ky., who has been here several weeks with his family, will look after Otis's engagements.

POLO MATCH.

RIVERSIDE SEASON OPENS.

The polo season was auspiciously opened in Riverside Friday with a spirited game between the Whites and Reds of the Riverside Polo Club. The attendance was large and enthusiastic, and the play throughout was full of dash and vim. Owing to a shower which came up at the close of the first period, only one period was played, each team scoring two goals.

The teams were made up as follows: Reds, Flowers, Roberts, Pedley and Bettner; Whites, Wright, Redmayne, Hudson and Mackie.

Wright and Hudson scored the goals for the Whites, and Flowers made both goals for the Reds. John P. Norton refereed the game.

Games will be played on Friday afternoon of each week during the season.

The polo club has prepared for a successful and interesting season of play and races, by the election of the following officers and committees: President, Robert Lee Bettner; vice-president, W. L. Roberts; secretary-treasurer, J. Harrison Wright; captain, M. E. Flowers; member of committee, W. E. Pedley. Racing Committee, John P. Norton, R. L. Bettner, R. M. Schwars, W. E. Pedley and M. E. Flowers. Grounds Committee, M. E. Flowers | W. E. Pedley.

Minor Baseball.

The crack team from the Olinda oil wells shut out the equally good San Pedro club yesterday at San Pedro by a score of 9 to 0. Olinda made twelve hits and two errors, and San Pedro four hits and three errors. The batteries were Crandall and Easterly for Olinda and Ford and Sylvia for San Pedro. The features of the game were Crandall's pitching, Head's work at third base, Left Fielder Mott's hitting, and his sensational catch of a foul.

The Reliance team of this city defeated the San Gabriel club at San Gabriel yesterday afternoon by a score of 6 to 4. The batteries were Bodkin and Reynolds for the winners and Laguin and Callahan for the losers. The pitching of Bodkin, the fielding of Teason for the winners and the work of First Baseman Graffen of San Gabriel were the features.

The St. Elmos beat the Lions by 6 to 1 yesterday afternoon on the grounds at Jefferson and Normandie streets. Silverstein of the Lions hit a home run for the only score of his team. The batteries were Kirkpatrick and Smith for St. Elmo and Ferando and Baker for the Lions.

The Bishops of this city beat the Tropico team yesterday in a fast, snappy game by a 3 to 2 score. The Bishop battery was Young and Mockler and Hunter and Salazar were in the points for Tropico.

The Raymond Specials beat the Heralds yesterday by a score of 15 to 5.

FAMILY BALL NINE.

EVEN HAS A SUBSTITUTE.

It is doubtful if there is another town in the United States, outside of Wappingers Falls, Dutchess county, N. Y., that can boast of the distinction of having a baseball nine, with a substitute player, all in the one family—not merely ten members, but ten good baseball players. They have not only established a reputation by playing among themselves, but by figuring conspicuously in teams along the Hudson River.

This novel nine is made up of the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Birkenmeyer of High street, Wappingers Falls. Although they are all first-class ball players, they never organized as a solid team until three months ago. The team is made up as follows: Charles Birkenmeyer, catcher; John Birkenmeyer, pitcher; Joseph Birkenmeyer, shortstop; Oscar Birkenmeyer, first base; Albert Birkenmeyer, second base; Hugh Birkenmeyer, third base; Adolph Birkenmeyer, Jr., left field; James Birkenmeyer, center field; Vincent Birkenmeyer, right field; Raymond Birkenmeyer, substitute.

The team has already established a good record for itself, not yet having suffered defeat at the hands of any of the many strong opposing baseball teams which it has encountered this season. Mr. Adolph Birkenmeyer, mother of the ten ball players, keeps the score of every game played.

TARGET PRACTICE.

TURNERS' MEDAL SHOOT.

The shooting section of Turnverein Germania opened the winter season yesterday with target practice at Schuetzen Park, the distance being 200 yards at the German ring target. The weather was pleasant and a large crowd of marksmen and spectators went to the park. Very good scores were made, considering that the men have not practiced for months. The old war horse, Joe Singer, won the champion medal, with a score of 209, and Tisdale was next with 198. The medal winners were as follows: Joe Singer, champion, 209; V. H. Tisdale, first, 198; Henry Pfirrmann, second, 173; C. Gollmer, third, 166; A. Wagner, fourth, 164.

The complete list is as follows: Singer, 209; Tisdale, 198; William Frick, 188; R. J. Frasier, 187; John Hauerwaas, 182; O. H. Wescott, 178; H. Pfirrmann, 178; J. Crawinger, 168; C. Gollmer, 166; A. Wagner, 163; Charles Krempel, 161; J. Von Breton, 153; A. Maas, 147; Frank Huebsch, Tom Thompson, 123; Claude Black, 113; F. Jaeger, 117; M. Friese, 114.

VALUABLE HORSE.

PALMS FARMERS BUY ONE.

Twelve of the progressive farmers and stock raisers of the Balfona district met last Saturday at the O'Leary stock farm at The Palms and completed the purchase from McLaughlin Bros. of Kansas City, the prize winning imported three-year-old Percheron stallion, Alcuin, French No. 51,968, and American No. 46,180. This good colt won the first price at the Kansas City Fair last October against 100 competing horses entered by the best breeders in the United States. It is said that McLaughlin Bros. have just sold a carload of Percheron stallions in this end of the State at prices ranging from $5000 to $6000 per animal.

Improper treatment of Contracted diseases causes chronic troubles and functional decline. My examinations are thorough and reveal this very cause in a great majority of cases of weakness.

Every case I treat is thoroughly and completely cured, the system purified and cleansed. There is a cure for these diseases, which are often treated blindly and by unreliable methods.

Functional Decline TERMED WEAKNESS BY SOME

I not only cure this condition promptly, but I employ the only scientific treatment that can cure this disorder permanently, which I accomplish by getting at the EXACT CAUSE. When I treat a case it is with entire confidence that I will effect a complete cure. My examinations are such that I will know what to do and how to do it.

I am confident my treatment is more effective and quickly cures Varicocele, Contracted Diseases, Stricture, Urethral and Bladder Troubles, Prostate Disorders, Piles and Rectal Diseases, in which I remove all soreness and inflammation and restore health and tone to every part affected and effect permanent cures.

JUSTICE.

"Equal Rights to All Companies; Special Privileges to None."

There Should Be No Discrimination Against the Investment of Capital, Hence There Should Be No Discrimination Against the Hauser Packing Company.

Each voter in Los Angeles will become a juror on December 5th, whose duty it will be to vote on the most important proposition that the voters ever had presented to them. All we wish to do in this statement is to present the facts concerning the packing house industry, and particularly that of the Hauser Packing Company. The resident tax payers of Los Angeles well know that Southern California has been until recently very greatly dependent upon the fruit industry and the tourist trade. Owing to the fact that manufacturing industries have not been any too plentiful in Southern California, and especially in Los Angeles, we should not let it appear that we in Los Angeles are opposed to the investment of capital in manufacturing enterprises.

FACTS THE VOTERS SHOULD KNOW.

The Hauser Packing Company is certainly showing their magnanimity when they say, "We do not want any advantages over the other packing companies, and therefore we ask only that we be given the same advantage that the other companies now enjoy. To that end, we ask that the voters vote FOR THE ORDINANCE MAKING IT UNLAWFUL TO SLAUGHTER ANY ANIMAL WITHIN THE LIMITS OF THE CITY OF LOS ANGELES, EXCEPT WITHIN CERTAIN DESCRIBED LIMITS OF THE SIXTH AND EIGHTH WARDS THEREOF, WHEN DONE SO AS NOT TO CREATE A NUISANCE." By so voting, all the packing-houses are given the same opportunities, whereas, if the Eighth Ward ordinance were adopted, our company would be frozen out and the other companies now in the Eighth Ward would have the whole field of business to themselves, as that ordinance limits the packing-house district to the Cudahy and Maier property alone."

Is there any voter who would say that there is any justice in giving advantages to some packing companies and withholding such advantages from another packing company? Such would be the case if the Eighth Ward ordinance were adopted. If the voters approved of the aforesaid ordinance the packing companies who would profit by it would do so at the expense of the Hauser Packing Company. This would be very unjust to the Hauser company. It would be equivalent to confiscating their property and property rights and giving the emoluments thereof to their competitors. Surely their competitors can ask for no more than they would be willing the Hauser company should have at the hands of the voters of this city, especially since Mr. Julius Hauser is a pioneer in the wholesale and retail meat and packing business, in which he has been engaged here for the past twenty-two years.

It may not be amiss to call attention to the fact that the City Council passed the ordinance which made the Hauser Packing Company's property a packing-house district before they bought it for that purpose. (This the records will show to be a fact.) When the Council so acted and the city thereby openly invited them to invest, they purchased their present packing-house property at an enormous price. The land alone consists of eighteen contiguous acres. In addition to this, Mr. Julius Hauser started for the East, and visited all the modern packing-houses in the large cities, and gathered data on the most highly-approved sanitary systems employed in the packing-house business; contracted for $150,000 worth of the most highly-improved machinery to be used on the Hauser property; placed orders for a large amount of choice shrubs and trees to be planted in a grass plot which is to be laid out on Ninth street and on Santa Fé, which are to beautify the plant and make it an attractive sight-seeing point for tourists. After all of this had been done, and DONE in GOOD FAITH, the City Council repealed the aforesaid ordinance which invited the Hausers in and induced them to make this expenditure, which repeal took place six months after the passage thereof, not only leaving the Hauser Packing Company in the lurch, but also causing them to suffer a terrible loss. Hence their appeal to the voters and business men's sense of honor and justice to not allow their company to be so seriously victimized.

Four of Mr. Hauser's five sons are also members of the Hauser Packing Company, and they have contributed very largely to the business thrift and energy of the city of Los Angeles. Can it be possible that anyone would vote to cause them such a great injury as would result to them, if the "Sixth and Eighth Ward ordinance," which treats all packing companies alike, should fail of approbation by the voters?

We can gain an approximate idea of the proportions which the Hauser Packing Company's business has attained during the past few years by the accompanying figures:

Live stock purchased for year ending Nov. 1, 1904..	$283,775.50
Live stock purchased years 1899-1904, inclusive	1,831,375.36
Miscellaneous purchases in Los Angeles, year ending Nov. 1	217,229.89
Materials, etc., purchased years 1899-1904, inclusive..	803,731.62
Men employed whose families live in the city of Los Angeles, average wholesale, retail and packing business	.10
Wages paid Los Angeles working men year ending Nov. 30, 1904	106,560.00
Wages paid Los Angeles working men 1899-1904, inclusive	201,487.75
Value of manufactured products made in and distributed from our plant for year ending Nov. 30, 1904.	562,084.84
Value of manufactured goods years 1899-1904, inclusive	2,906,807.55

There can be no logical complaint made against the packing-house industry from a hygienic standpoint. It is generally known that the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of Los Angeles, Cal., recently appointed an impartial committee, consisting of R. W. Pridham, M. H. Newmark and E. H. Greppin, whose duty it was to ascertain whether or not the packing plant investigated presented any objectionable features justifying its removal from the city. This committee reported, in part, as follows:

"The various branches of the packing-house are conducted with the utmost regard to sanitary precautions, and we have found absolutely no trace of any odor emanating from said plant, and we are justified in stating without hesitation that the packing-house furnishes no objections that may affect the public health or welfare.

"R. W. Pridham, M. H. Newmark, E. H. Greppin, committee."

This should remove all doubts as to unsanitary conditions, and further, the police power of the city can always regulate and immediately abate any unsanitary condition that could arise as a result of neglect.

STATEMENT FROM MR. JULIUS HAUSER.

Some time ago, at a conference held between Simon Maier and Attorney Jones, representing the Maier Packing Company, and Mr. Thomas Creigh, representing the Cudahy Packing Company, and myself and son, Herman J. Hauser, we discussed the subject matter of the packing-house controversy. Subsequently, at another conference, I asked Mr. Maier what price he wanted per acre for some of his property. Mr. Maier replied, "Well, $10,000 per acre is about right. What do you think about it?" (Even then he would not offer any definite acres.) I answered excitedly, "What do you mean, Mr. Maier? Do you mean to build your proposed packing-house with my money?" Turning to my son, I said, "Herman, let us get out of here. We won't stand for this. It is a hold-up and an attempt to freeze us out by getting us hemmed in between them without any frontage property."

I then turned to Mr. Maier and said, "Mr. Maier, you and the Cudahy representative, Mr. Thomas Creigh, are just trying to kill time and keep me from letting the people see this game of freeze-out you are playing on me; now I am going to show you all up." Mr. Maier replied, "Why, you can go right on with your campaign, Mr. Hauser. We don't want to stop you. We don't care. We really cannot spare any of our land anyway."

Accordingly we have gone on with our campaign, and notwithstanding this ill treatment at the hands of these competitors, I only ask the people who stand for justice to vote FOR the ordinance which gives them as fair a show as I ask for our company, because it treats all alike.

On November 25, the "Evening Express" reported that the other packing companies made a proposition to us to sell us some of their land. At that time there had been no proposition made, and we so informed the people of Los Angeles the next day in "The Times." Whereupon the Maier company sent us a letter by messenger, making us an offer with a "string to it." That was the first proposition of any kind, made to us, and that letter gave us from Friday, November 26, at 6:30 p.m., until Monday noon, November 29, to consider the matter. We returned prompt answer by the same messenger, a copy of which we here reproduce:

"THE HAUSER PACKING COMPANY,

"Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 26, 1904.
6:32 p.m.

"Received from Simon Maier a communication of this date, with reference to an option on certain property which we shall duly consider.

"Yours respectfully,
"H. J. HAUSER."

On Monday morning, November 29, we replied to the communication in full, and offered $4000 per acre to Mr. Maier, and stated to him, "If, however, my offer is not acceptable to you, then I hereby agree to abide by the decision of a committee of appraisers to be appointed by the Los Angeles Realty Board, as to the value of such land as I shall secure from you.

[Signed] "JULIUS HAUSER."

We received the following receipt for that letter:

MAIER PACKING COMPANY,
149-151 N. Spring street.
Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 28, 1904.

Mr. Julius Hauser, Los Angeles, Cal.:
We beg to acknowledge receipt of your favor of the present date.

Yours very truly,
MAIER PACKING COMPANY.

Up to the hour of going to press with this report to the people, we have not heard a word in reply to our letter above referred to. We respectfully submit to the voters of the city of Los Angeles that our conduct in this whole affair has been commendable, and we therefore ask that the voters kindly cut out the specimen ballot on this page, take it to the polling place with them, and mark it accordingly.

The Chamber of Commerce of Los Angeles passed the following resolution on December 1, 1904, after making the most thorough investigation of the whole question concerning the packing-house industry:

"Resolved, that it is the sense of the board of directors of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce that the city of Los Angeles should encourage the establishing within or near the city every possible manufacturing industry, including slaughter and packing-houses, and be it further

"Resolved, That the city of Los Angeles should set aside a sufficient district within the Los Angeles River within which all manufacturing and slaughtering plants should be located.

[Signed] "H. S. M'KEE,
"President Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce.
"H. B. GURLEY, Acting Secretary Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce."

The accompanying map shows that the Hauser property is within 600 feet of the Los Angeles River, and is therefore, in every possible way most peculiarly and favorably situated in the best possible location for such an enterprise. The people of Southern California and especially of Los Angeles, are well aware of the great good that has been done for the city by the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, and the Chamber of Commerce respectively, and hence the people know that these honorable bodies had no ambition to gratify, or any purpose to serve in making the above reports, other than what would be most conducive to the very best possible benefit of the whole people of the city of Los Angeles.

COPY OF AN ADDITIONAL REPORT FROM THE LOS ANGELES CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Los Angeles is rapidly growing to be the manufacturing center of the Southwest, and from our observation of the past six months, we believe that there is probably paid out by the different manufacturing plants in Los Angeles the net sum of $80,000 per week in wages. It is our earnest desire to see this figure growing every day, and to accomplish this we must encourage and offer every assistance possible to manufacturers.

We heartily favor the proposition to let slaughtering-houses in the Sixth and Eighth wards, under proper restrictions, leaving it in the hands of the City Council to make proper regulations to insure the business being conducted in a sanitary and inoffensive manner, as is now being done in the Cudahy plant. This would give a fair chance to all, and work injustice to none, as the Sixth and Eighth wards are large enough to provide no undue advantage being taken of such an arrangement.

With the proposed addition of the Maier and Hauser slaughter-houses within the city, under the proper regulation, there would be work for about 800 additional men in the city, and the increased expenditure for wages of at least $8000 per week.

Therefore, we urge that this Chamber of Commerce indorse and lend every assistance possible to the manufacturers and to keep them within the prescribed district above referred to.

Respectfully submitted.

Committee.

Just think of the advantages that will accrue to our city by adopting the "Sixth and Eighth Ward ordinance," as indicated on the specimen ballot, and which treats all the packing companies alike:

First—Employment by the Hauser company alone of about 550 men all the year around at good wages.

Second—Continued competition in the meat trade which keeps the price of meat to the consumer down to a reasonable point.

Third—Large increase in the value of the vast amount of vacant land which is situated on all sides of the Hauser property, and an increase in value of property generally throughout the city, because of the opportunities for employment for so many more men than are now employed in the city.

"A Question for the Cudahy and Maier Packing Companies To Answer."

If the Cudahy and The Maier Companies are, or ever were, sincere, and really do not want a monopoly why do they persist in trying to get us out, and keep us out, when WE have shown that we ask as much for them as we ask for ourselves? If they are sincere, why don't they favor the ordinance which includes the "6TH and 8TH WARDS?" THAT ordinance FAVORS THEM as much as the one they ask for.

IS THAT NOT PLAIN?

But they know their 8th Ward ordinance alone makes the old boundary lines for packing-houses smaller than before, because it cuts off the part now in the First Ward and limits the boundary to the property NOW owned by them.

There are on file copies of the whole correspondence in this controversy, all of which "THE HAUSER PACKING COMPANY" holds open to the inspection of the PUBLIC, at their general offices, 129 to 135 South Main Street, City.

IN RECKLESS TROLLEYING.

A Main Street Business Man Mangled to Death.

Bloody Accident on the Pico Heights Electric.

Long Delay in Getting Victim to the Hospital.

There has lately been much complaint of recklessness of the motormen of the Pico Heights line of the Los Angeles Railway Company. It is said that crossings are approached at a high rate of speed and that the motormen stop their cars on the opposite side of cross streets at points never the same twice in succession, and almost never at the street crossing; that to one awaiting a car it seems that the car is not going to stop at all, and the passengers are compelled to grab frantically for handles, as they know that the two taps for "go ahead" will sound before they are well on board.

Such recklessness resulted yesterday in the horrible mutilation and subsequent death of Clayton S. Griffith of Oakland, who was waiting for a car at the corner of Pico and Valencia streets to bring him to the center of the city. There is a jog in Valencia street at the Pico crossing, the north continuation being about 150 feet west of the south continuation.

Griffith was standing at the western intersection of the streets when car No. 332, with Motorman R. Dean at the controller and Conductor W. H. Light in charge approached. The motorman refused to stop.

Grabbing the handle bars on the front end, Griffith was jerked off his feet and hurled under the car. In his falling the step caught his trousers and he was dragged on his face for a distance of sixty feet. His right arm fell under the wheel and was ground into a pulp between the shoulder and the elbow. The left cheek was torn open full length, and the back of his head was almost scalped clean. When the car was finally stopped it was necessary to jack it up before the body could be withdrawn.

It seems that the cars are not supposed to stop at the western intersection of Pico and Valencia streets, but as Griffith has been in the city but a few months, and had never been in that neighborhood before, he was not aware of this rule, and did not understand why the motorman refused to slow down for him. Witnesses state that the car was going fifteen or twenty miles an hour.

HEARTLESSNESS.

"When the railroad people called up the Police Station and asked me to send an ambulance out there, I told them to bring the man in on the next car and that the wagon would meet it at the corner of First and Broadway," said Police Sergt. McClure yesterday evening. "They refused to do that, even when I told them it would make a difference of at least forty minutes in getting the man to the hospital, and we had to send the wagon out there while the car continued its way to this very corner, within a stone's throw. Such delays have proved fatal more than once. I guess they have a rule that if the man is bloody he must not be taken on the car."

The accident happened at 3:20 o'clock. It was 4:20 before the wagon arrived with the mutilated man, and at 5:50 he was declared dead. Drs. P. R. McArthur, T. C. Myers, E. M. Pallette, A. M. Smith and C. Bonynge did all in their power to save his life, but too much blood had flowed from his body before his arrival at the hospital, and the case was hopeless.

Griffith was conscious when put on the operatnig table. He gave his business address as No. 252 South Main, and said he came to Los Angeles from Oakland to work as an electrician. As the anesthetic was applied he said: "Jeannette, Jeannette, Jeannette!" These were his last words. His wife and two children, a boy 9 years old and a little girl of but a year, are living at McCloud, Cal., and have been notified by telegraph. The body was removed to Bresee Bros.' undertaking establishment, where an inquest will be held tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock.

An inspector of the railroad company who hurled to the scene, refused flatly to answer inquiries put by a Times reporter, saying: "There is just one man that can tell you anything, and that is the superintendent, John J Akin. We receive our orders from him."

HAVE THE PUBLIC ANY RIGHTS?

The city editor of The Times yesterday afternoon called up Supt. Akin by telephone and inquired as to the facts, circumstances and conditions of this accident. Akin refused any and all information, saying it was contrary to his policy to give the facts in such cases. He refused to give even the names of the conductor and motorman on the Pico Heights car. He declared that it was "the affair of the company only and no concern of the public's"—a view which is not shared by the citizens of Pico Heights or by the numerous victims run over by Akin's ordinance-defying cars.

As Akin had made this sort of talk before, precaution was taken in this case to have three auditors of his remarks at three different phones (two Times men and an outsider,) and his talk was taken down in shorthand.

MAN OF STANDING.

C. S. Griffith came to Los Angeles from Oakland where he had been living for some time at No. 1534 Brush street. He was 29 years old, and was born in Missouri. During his stay in this city he has been residing at the Grand Southern Hotel. No. 526 South Main, and was known and well liked by the proprietor, J. H. Smith.

"Griffith was a man of good habits and a hard worker," said Smith last night. "He was engaged in the electrical supply business at No. 252 South Main, and made a specialty of static machines and instantaneous X-ray coils and seemed to be doing very well. I believe it was his intention to bring his family here to make their permanent home."

SOME of the largest manufacturing institutions in the United States have grown up from a very modest beginning. A notable case is Peters Cartridge Co., which but a few years ago was almost unknown. Today they operate the most complete ammunition plant in the world, and their product is the best. Those who demand and use Peters shells are never disappointed in their ammunition.

AT THE CITY'S GATES.

UNIVERSITY.

FRIDAY evening, in the college chapel, the long-planned-for concert for the benefit of the Athletic Association of the University of Southern California was given before an audience that overflowed into the main hallway. Seldom has so large a gathering greeted a like affair. Much interest was taken in the event, because of the honor won by the football team in its gridiron work this season. Hearty applause greeted the numbers rendered, popular Harvey Holmes and his advanced pupils being especially well received in the tumbling act. Mats were arranged on the platform, and the sturdy football coach surprised his friends by performing feats counted impossible for a man of his weight. Holmes weighs 196 pounds, but his avordupois was no handicap when he performed the many interesting turns and flips of the tumbling art. The recently organized mandolin club gave some excellent selections. Readings were given by Miss Nelye Dickson, professor of oratory; Miss Mabel Clarke and Charles Scott. The Prior Quartette were as pleasing as ever. Profs. Walker and Miller sang a duet, and the U.S.C. Girls' Glee Club made their first appearance in chorus. The proceeds of the entertainment, which were large, will go to meet the running expenses.

Rev. E. A. Healy of the University Methodist Church preached yesterday from the topic "If a Man Die, Shall He Live Again?" In the evening Rev. H. W. White, the associate pastor, delivered the second of a series of addresses to the young people, entitled "The Young Man and the Industrial Problem."

Thursday afternoon the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. T. J. Turner, No. 1155 West Thirty-eighth street. Mrs. G. P. Bovard and Mrs. Morgan, late of the Waits De Pyster Home, will conduct the programme.

THE SOUTHWEST.

A solemn triduum will begin at the Church of St. Vincent de Paul, Washington and Grand avenue, today, continuing on Tuesday and Wednesday, with special devotions, a sermon and solemn benediction, in honor of the Immaculate Conception. Yesterday was communion day for the Young Men's Sodality, the Young Ladies' Sodality and the Confraternity of the Most Holy Rosary. Rev. W. J. Gorrell, C.M., celebrated the high mass and Rev. F. X. McCabe preached the sermon.

Mrs. Howard H. Crawford of No. 745 West Seventeenth street, entertained members of the Olive Club Tuesday with an old-fashioned dinner, at noon. All the guests had work bags and spent the day finishing two beautifully pieced comforters for the Orphans' Home. The house was attractive with roses and ferns, and in the dining-room scarlet geraniums and their foliage were displayed. Those present were: Mrs. S. K. Sloan, Mrs. Edward Quine, Mrs. John Whitfield, Mrs. Arthur Starr, Mrs. C. Fleury, Mrs. Ira Tilden and Miss Mary Starr.

There are now 180 persons enrolled in the West Adams Methodist Sunday-school, and even the enlarged chapel is none too large to accommodate the people gathered into this comparatively new church work.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Ward Parsons of Hobart Boulevard and Twenty-eighth street will celebrate their thirtieth wedding anniversary this evening.

Ground has been broken for the new building of the Grand View Presbyterian Church. The new site is on West Adams street, near Vermont avenue.

HIGHLAND PARK.

For several weeks a movement has been in progress among realty owners in Highland Park to provide an amicable arrangement, whereby they could avoid having a business block erected on Pasadena avenue in a strictly residence section. This was the proposed Newberry business establishment, which was planned to be an extensive concern. J. R. Newberry had purchased a lot on the west side of Pasadena avenue, near Avenue 51, but through the efforts of Goodenough & McClung and Poor & Wing, who carried through the various deals without compensation, a satisfactory exchange of properties has been made so as to avoid having the lot used for business purposes. Mr. Newberry trades this lot to Mr. Makalip for his property on the south side of Avenue 50, next the Santa Fé Railway; then Mr. Makalip trades his Pasadena avenue lot to J. F. Chambers for a lot on Avenue 52, second beyond the Santa Fé, and is now moving his house on this lot; while Mr. Chambers gets the Pasadena avenue lot with strong restrictions against its use for any business purpose.

The work of leveling up the surface of Sycamore Grove is about completed and makes a great transformation in that beautiful spot. The land has been filled in and raised from three to four feet in the lower sections, while the upper end has been graded up to a gentle slope. It is understood that a band stand will grace the upper section, which is an open space and will be seeded to grass. Cement walks have been laid along the Pasadena avenue lines.

Sawyer, who spoke of the marvelous progress of the lodge, and prophesied great things for the future. J. T. Harvey sang a solo. About four hundred people were present. The new building was completed at a cost of $25,000. Wednesday evening the lodge held its first meeting in the hall, and $900 in stocks were sold to the members present. One thousand dollars' worth of furniture has been provided for the hall.

Eddie Abbott, who on Thursday afternoon was run over by a Santa Monica car, is doing well at the home of his grandmother on Hoover street. Eddie is the son of George Abbott, whose home is on the corner of Ninth and New Hampshire streets. The little fellow's arms was amputated close to the shoulder. Drs. Justice, Bartlett and Sawyer are in attendance. He will recover.

Rev. D. B. Loofburrow of the Methodist Church preached yesterday morning from the topic, "Revivals in Religion." The subject of the evening discourse was "Our Common Hindrances."

Thursday evening the chorus choir of the Methodist Church gave a sacred concert that was one of the most enjoyable recent musical events. The church was filled. The programme included, beside the local talent in the chorus, many of the noted vocalists of the city. After a piano solo by Mrs. Douglas, the choir sang "Oh, Shout for Joy." Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Crane sang a pleasing duet, entitled, "Still as the Night," and Prof. M. L. Evans was the soloist and was well received. Miss Mable McBain, reader, was entertaining, and was often recalled. The Goodwin Brothers Quartette sang several selections. The concert closed with the choir singing "Gloria" from Mozart's "Twelfth Mass." The concert was given under the direction of J. T. Harvey. Mrs Barr was the pianist.

At the home of Mrs. Charles Lang of No. 2500 Sepulveda street, the Boys' Glee Club entertained with a costume party. Mother Goose characters, heroes from books that are familiar, and original make-ups made the gaily-decked parlors of the home seem like dreamland. Robinson Crusoe and his Man Friday, Mary and her little lamb, Old Mother Hubbard and fierce-looking Black Bart were well represented by the boys in costume. Games of "Ye olden time" were played, and bread and milk refreshments were served.

Mrs. George Crow, a former resident of Pico Heights, after spending a year in the East, has returned and is located at No. 2605 West Pico street.

Mrs. E. O. Sawyer of No. 2722 West Pico street, who has been seriously ill, is convalescent.

Little Elsie St. George, youngest daughter of A. L. St. George of Ninth street and Normandie avenue, died Friday morning. The funeral services, held from the home, were conducted by Rev. W. C. Clatworthy.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational Church met Tuesday afternoon at the parsonage to discuss plans for the Christmas holidays. An elaborate lunch was served.

Mrs. A. B. Grannis, who died Thursday night, was buried Sunday afternoon from the family residence, No 1210 Fedora street. Mrs. Grannis was well known in this community and had been for a long time a sufferer. The end, while expected, nevertheless came suddenly. Rev. D. B. Loofburrow of the Methodist Church preached the funeral sermon.

Mrs. M. A. Anderson is having built a four-room cottage at No. 1138 King street.

GARVANZA.

The Garvanza Fortnightly Club met Thursday evening at the Fine Arts building. Miss Chase, Miss Quayle and R. H. Donnell served as Hospitality Committee. The first installment of the club's story, written by Prof. Judson, was read. The time of the story is the days when Indians camped by the waters of the Arroyo Seco, made their trails over mountain and mesa, and tortured their victims on what is now known as "Tarantula Hill" in Garvanza. The next installment is to be written by Miss Lomerby. The talk of the evening was given by Mrs. Mabel S. Robertson on "The Symbolism of Astrology." Mrs. Robertson proved herself to be deeply versed in the science, and a large part of the evening was given to the discussion. The next meeting of the club will be held on the third Thursday of the month, December 15, when F. I. Wheat will speak on "Unity in Diversity," an account of the origin and development of human institutions.

The Garvanza Audubon Society will meet this evening at the home of W. R. Myers, No. 306 North Avenue 66. The birds to be studied are the California bushtits, the valley quail and Brewer's blackbirds.

Harry Hull and family are newcomers in Garvanza. He has taken the Freshwater barber shop.

Nine handsome homes are now under course of construction in the main section of Garvanza.

ORANGE.

PACKING-HOUSE BURNED.

ORANGE, Dec. 4.—Wilson & Gilman's packing-house on the Santa Fé tracks above the depot, with all its machinery, more than 1000 boxes of oranges in the house, and a refrigerator car loaded with oranges ready for shipment, were destroyed by fire at 6 o'clock yesterday morning. The blaze was discovered in a "sweater" room where a gasoline stove was used to supply artificial heat to mature the fruit. When first seen the fire was beyond control, and after a futile effort to check the flames, the whole house had to be abandoned. It is believed that gasoline was responsible for the conflagration.

The packing-house with machinery was worth about $3000, and carried $2000 insurance. The fruit in the car, about 350 boxes, and more than a thousand in the house, was valued at $1.75 per box, bringing the total loss to more than $6000. Wilson & Gilman are independent shippers of fruit and produce, and conduct a general commission house.

REMEMBER THOSE PASSED BEYOND.

SOLEMN LODGE OF SORROW BY THE PASADENA ELKS.

Eloquent Tributes to the Dead, Impressive Lessons to the Living and Inspiring Sacred Music the Feature. Lodge Makes Big Profit on Los Angeles Real Estate.

PASADENA, Office of The Times, 78 South Raymond Avenue, Dec. 4.—Yesterday, all over the country, the days commemorated deaths of their heroes. It was Elks' Memorial Day, and Pasadena Lodge was not forgetful. The Presbyterian Church was crowded. Those remembered were H. Durand, H. W. Hines, J. H. Guetzlow, I. B. Thomas and W. S. Mel-

The programme was very impressive. First an organ voluntary was rendered by M. F. Mason, to the strains of which the brothers filed in and took their seats. After the opening invocation was pronounced by Rev. J. McLeod, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. A quartette, Le-Jepson, C. Stine, William Jones and C. J. Crandall, sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and Richard C. Halsted, Illustrious Lecturing Knight, rendered "Translopsis." LeRoy Jepson sang a solo, "In Dreams I Saw the Dead." The eulogy, which is one of the principal parts of the ceremony, was spoken by F. S. Allen of Joliet, a visiting Elk.

"Friends, we have come together to look backward over the flight of years," he said, "and in solemn service to call to mind the forms and faces that for a short time since mingled with us, who shared our joys and sorrows, our successes and our failures. Here, of a thousand lodges are assembled in their temples today to listen to the roll call of those who have gone before. We call upon them, but our ears hear no responsive voice. Our hearts tell us that they are with us in the spirit if not in the flesh."

The secretary reviewed the history of the lodge, and continued:

"Let me say a word as to your future. The lodge and will progress. But no one should be admitted within your doors that you cannot, with absolute confidence, take into your own home and present as a brother to the loved ones of your family circle. Endeavor to live up to the name of Elk, so borne by the noble herd of its true synonym, 'one true friend to his fellow-men.' And then will the beloved order be a credit to the world, a blessing to mankind and acceptable to God unto the day when the stars grow cold and the stars are as the leaves of the judgment

The choir then sang "Savior Comfort Me," and Rev. Frank M. Dowling, pastor of the First Christian Church, delivered an address which in part was as follows:

"I have been greatly impressed," he said, "with some of the ideas and sentiments in your very impressive ritual this afternoon. You have said in your ritualistic service: 'Of-ten have I been reminded in these words that we were born to die.' Many there are who live it weak and cowardly fear of death, but you men are not of that number. You are not weak, and you said and thought these words. A strong man and thinker has no fear must be afflicted with spirituality or cursed with incurability who has never thought of the time on which he may at any moment. And we agree with him.

"It is indeed weak and cowardly for one to live in constant fear of it, but it is manly and strong to be prepared for death when it shall come. The wise man so orders the affairs of his house, his business and his life that he is wholly ready to go at any moment. May we be ever thus prepared for the summons to go home."

"The Ninety and Nine," was sung by Miss Elisabeth Jones, and after the closing ceremonies and singing of the doxology.

CONVENTION.

[illegible] meeting of officers and representatives of development organizations and chambers of commerce is booked for this city on December 17. The meeting is to amalgamate a movement for the cooperation of these organizations which expend in improvements and advertising very large sums. The object of the meeting is to arrange so that these sums, contributed by the public for the benefit of the country, may do the greatest good for all, and to establish a distributing headquarters.

An invitation has been extended to all development organizations in the State to be present. Members of the State Publicity Committee will also attend. The theme of the meeting will be "California Publicity." Addresses will be delivered by men from all parts of the State. Gov. Pardee has been invited to open the meeting. Special railroad rates will be made from all parts of California.

A PRIVATE PALACE.

The beautiful, spacious, costly J. M. Durand place on Arlington Heights, between Orange Grove Boulevard and Pasadena avenue, is nearing completion, but will not be ready for occupancy until late next spring, though a large force of men has been working upon it for three years without a vacation. This palatial dwelling, in more than one respect perhaps the greatest thing of its kind in California if not in the country, will cost, according to estimates, between $250,000 and $500,000. Neither the owner, J. M. Durand nor Architect F. L. O. Rhoerig, will admit what the structure with all its accessories, will cost.

An interesting feature of it is that the owner is a blind man who will never see its beauties of architecture.

The house has fifty rooms and 17,000 feet of floor space. The style is baronial, like a great French chateau, and the outside is finished in Arizona red sandstone and grey plaster. It is built so that there are no back yards. Every point of view presents a front. All the appointments are most costly. A burglar need not go farther than the front door to make a good haul, for the door knob is worth $100. Almost every bit of interior woodwork is hand-carved and there are mantels of mahogany and mirrors of cut glass, locks of gold and two elaborately decorated elevators. The Durands are wealthy Chicago people who have lived here for a number of years, at present residing across the street from their home in course of construction. They have many relatives who will spend winters with them, so that the big house will not be empty.

HERE AND THERE.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church plan a bazaar for all day Tuesday, closing with a programme of music and dramatics in the evening.

South Pasadena will have a High School of its own. At an election on Saturday it was voted 60 to 9 that such an institution was needed and accordingly plans will be drawn very soon.

Sunny room, well furnished, steam heat, for rent, No. 40 Worcester ave.

For furniture Pennel's is the place. Pictures framed at Wadsworth's. Tracing paper at Leonard's.

WHITTIER.

DEATH OF REV. A. C. HAZZARD.

WHITTIER, Dec. 4.—Rev. A. C. Hazzard, one of the pioneers of this section died Saturday morning, at his home in East Whittier. He had lived in this section since 1882, and in California since 1864. He is survived by a widow and five children. George L. and Fred A. Hazzard of this city, Mrs. T. H. Woodward of Orange, Mrs. E. M. Brokaw of Whittier, and Mrs. Alice Dundas of Los Angeles. Among Mr. Hazzard's gifts were lands valued at $10,000, given to the University of Southern California, and substantial gifts of money and lands to the First Methodist Church of this city. At the time of his death he was paying for the education of no less than four young people, who were preparing themselves for missionaries.

TEACHERS IN SESSION.

The Los Nietos Valley Teachers' Association met in the High School auditorium yesterday holding a morning and afternoon session, during which a number of interesting papers on educational topics were read, and an entertaining musical programme rendered. Among the outside talent who assisted in entertaining was Miss Delia J. Moss of New Orleans, who is visiting at the home of Mayor Trueblood. Miss Moss is possessed of a sweet mezzo soprano voice, and her selection was enthusiastically received. A chorus and double quartette by the girl students under the directorship of Miss Pearl Martin, were among the musical features of the session, and were heartily applauded.

Prof. John E. Wright, principal of the Los Nietos School, read a paper on "Needed School Legislation," in which he expressed some radical views regarding what he deemed necessary changes in the State laws. He believed that the law should be revised so that no teacher in any public school should receive less than $75 a month. He also insisted that teachers' institutes, which are an annual expense of $150,000, should be abolished, and the amount expended for the establishment of teachers' reading circles, for the maintenance of university extension courses, and for the support of five or six centers of State short summer schools, which teachers should be required to attend. He also favored a uniform State course, and free textbooks.

A lively basketball game was played here yesterday between the Santa Fé team of Los Angeles and the local High School team. The regular line-up for both teams was on the field and the game was interesting from start to finish, Whittier won by a score of 10 to 5.

LORDSBURG.

VALUABLE RANCH SOLD.

LORDSBURG, Dec. 4.—The Evergreen ranch, consisting of 173 acres, in oranges, lemons and alfalfa, has partially changed ownership. Three years ago this property was traded by the heirs of the late J. A. Packard to C. L. Lancaster of Chicago, on a valuation of $200,000. Chicago property being taken in exchange. About nine months ago Mr. Lancaster traded the ranch to W. S. Collins and George E. Hart, on a valuation of $150,000, taking in exchange stock in the Newport Beach Company. Mr. Hart has now sold his half interest in the property to Mr. Collins, who will much improve the ranch. Consideration is not named.

RELIEF FOR THE STARVING.

TENT CITY FOR OCEAN PARK.

ATTRACTIVE FEATURE TO BE ADDED NEXT SEASON.

Canvas Town Modeled After the Famous One at Coronado Beach to be Established on the Strand—Omnipresent Sewer Question Causing Mors Cuesin' and Discussin.'

OCEAN PARK, Dec. 4.—The latest addition to Venice's rapidly expanding list of attractions is a tent city, to be fashioned after the plan of Coronado's famous white city on the strand. The tented village of Venice is to be located just west of the grand canal and will consist of two hundred cottages of heavy duck. All are to be supplied with water and wil be connected with the sewer system. The street is to be fifty feet wide and a thousand feet in length, and will be sidewalked. The entire city will be brilliantly illuminated. Several of the contracts have already been let. The new city will open in a blaze of light on May 1.

WHY NOT SETTLE THIS?

The sewer proposition is once more nearing the acute stage. With the renewed agitation of town division Santa Monica is moving in an endeavor to collect from Ocean Park rental for the use by Ocean Park of the older city's outfall. Santa Monica owns the sewer, and the Speedway in the part, of the city which it is proposed to exclude is the property of Santa Monica, being the sewer right of way. This matter may yet complicate the division plan. The Ocean Park City Trustees held a secret conference during the week with E. P. Clark and other extensive holders of sand lots in South Ocean Park and beyond, as far as Playa del Rey and to Hyperion, where the proposed trunk line sewer will connect with the Los Angeles outfall pier. It is given out that a satisfactory agreement can be reached between these several interests, but the exact nature of the agreement is not known. Clark did object to carrying the projected sewer pipes across the mouth of the lagoon. His argument was that it would interfere with the Bathing Harbor, which the electric people purpose using for pleasure craft. This objection, it was thought for a time, would interfere with the trunk line sewer, as engineering difficulties would be encountered in carrying the pipes under the lagoon. It is thought the entire sewer matter will be decided at the meeting of the Trustees tomorrow night.

"A Chinese Honeymoon," musical comedy, which won favor here last year, will be seen again at the Mason Operahouse tonight, a different company presenting it. The sale of seats is on at the Mason box office for the Shakespearean engagement of Miss Florence Gale, who will open in "As You Like It" Wednesday night.

Los Angeles local, No. 33, of the Printers' Protective Fraternity, held its annual election of officers Sunday afternoon, with the following result: President, D. E. Mumford; vice-president, C. T. Gulliver; recording secretary, Hugh W. Hunt, financial secretary and treasurer, Henry M. Hall; sergeant-at-arms, Lou McCorkle; sentinel, P. W. Dinsmore; board of trustees, C. A. Edwards, Fred Llewellyn and J. D. Ford.

Bishop's Father Dies.

A dispatch was received at the cathedral residence late yesterday afternoon from Bishop Conaty, announcing the death of his father about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at Worcester, Mass., where the bishop was called a few weeks ago. It is expected that the funeral will be held on Wednesday, and on that morning a solemn requiem mass will be offered at the Cathedral of St. Vibiana.

The Ratero.

The first case of pocket-picking since the open season for light-fingered "gents" began, was reported to the police yesterday. O. H. Abernathy of No. 218 East Seventh street, was the victim. Abernathy boarded a car for downtown at Seventh street and Maple avenue at 3 o'clock, and paid no particular attention to the man crowding him on one side. When Abernathy left the car he missed a purse containing $19.75, which had been taken from his trousers pocket.

"The Inner Life."

A large audience listened to Dr. Alexander J. McIvor-Tyndall yesterday afternoon at Blanchard's Hall. He spoke on "The Inner Life," and declared that instead of people talking about the sin and evil and wickedness of humanity, they should "set about the task of preaching the goodness of God, and the joy of living, and our kinship with divinity. Then the world would be all right, and we would objectify the soul's inherent right to health and happiness." Dr. McIvor-Tyndall will speak next Sunday afternoon on the subject "After Death."

Mission at Cathedral.

Yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock a mission was opened at St. Vibiana's Cathedral, to continue until Thursday evening. It is conducted by Rev. H. J. Gallagher, S.J., of Santa Clara College. Father Gallagher spoke yesterday morning to a very large congregation. He will give addresses daily at 5:30 and 8 o'clock in the mornings, and at 7:30 o'clock in the evenings. Thursday will be the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, and will be observed by special services in all of the Roman Catholic churches. Special music will be rendered at all of the services of the mission.

Singed His Wool.

"Mistah" Dick Long, a burly, ebony-hued son of Africa, made love to his "lady fren" at No. 712 East First street, whereupon Jake Tyson, another "cullud gemman," took a pot shot at his big rival and sent a bullet clipping so close to Mistah Long's head that a lock of wool was fairly shaved off. The affair occurred when a colored pink tea was at its height in the First-street mansion, and created consternation in the ranks of Darktown society. Patrolman Wallace was found, and to him the story of the assault was told. "Mistah" Tyson was locked in the City Jail to await issuance of a warrant today, charging him with assault with a deadly weapon.

Crowded School.

A determined effort will be made to secure the enlargement of the Cornwell-street school building before the beginning of another school year. Last week a temporary shack was completed in the yard adjoining the school, for the accommodation of the kindergarten, as this department has been crowded out of the building. The territory surrounding the Cornwell-street school has more than doubled in population within the past year, and either this building must be enlarged or another established somewhere on the district lying north of First street. The Cornwell-street Child Study Circle is taking up the movement to get the school made a two-story building and all the grades, up to the High school established there.

"Modern Towers of Babel."

Mrs. Benjamin Fay Mills spoke at the Fellowship meeting in Blanchard's Hall yesterday morning on the subject of "Modern Towers of Babel." After telling the story of the people on the plain of Shinar, she said: "This is like the true story of the human soul. We all believe as these people did in a heaven that is possible of attainment—not in a far away city with golden streets, but in a highest good that shall be the fulfillment of our desires and aspirations. Yet never can that which is finite satisfy the infinite; never can that which is material and impermanent meet the needs of the soul, which is immortal and eternal in its nature; so we should give ourselves to the life of entire consecration to the highest goodness."
